"DISLOYAL" VOTES BARRED BY WILSON IN STINGING WORDS

President Informs O'Leary, Head of Pro-German Society, That He Wants Only Votes of Loyal Americans.

UGLY TELEGRAM SENT TO WILSON BY O'LEARY

In His Speech Today President Wilson Intends to Give to the Country the Definite Reason Why He Asks Second Term.

Long Branch, N. J., September 29.—President Wilson made it plain tonight that he wants no "disloyal" American to vote for him. He expressed indignation over a telegram from Jeremiah A. O'Leary, of New York, president of the American Truth society, accusing him of being pro-British, and saying he had failed to obtain compliance with American rights.

The president sent Mr. O'Leary a short telegram which officials indicated Mr. Wilson had desired to put in stronger language. His message follows:

"Your telegram received. I would feel deeply mortified to have you or anybody like you to vote for me. Since you have access to many disloyal Americans and I have not, I will ask you to convey this message to them."

O'Leary's Telegram to Wilson.

"Again we greet you with a popular disapproval of your pro-British policies. Last year from the twenty-third New York congressional district and now from your own state and from the voters of your own party. Senator Martine won because the voters of New Jersey do not want any truckling to the British empire nor do they approve of dictatorship over congress.

"Your foreign policies, your failure to secure compliance with all American rights, your leniency with the British empire, your approval of war loans, the ammunition traffic are issues in this campaign. Do you know that William S. Bennet, a republican congressman, ran in the democratic primaries in the twenty-third New York congressional district and polled 26 per cent of the democratic vote against his regular democratic opponent? Anglo-maniacs and British interest may control newspapers, but they don't control votes. The people may be readers, but they are not followers of the newspapers.

"When, sir, will you respond to these evidences of popular disapproval of your policies by action? The Martine election and Bennet vote prove you have lost support amongst democrats.

"Every vote for Martine was a vote against you, as was every democratic vote that went for Mr. Bennet in the democratic primaries in the twenty-third congressional district."

Wilson to Explain Attitude.

The president's attitude toward the campaign and toward some issues of the country were made known here today. It was learned that in his speech at Shadow Lawn tomorrow and in subsequent addresses here he intends to give to the country the definite reason why he is asking for another term.

The president will adhere strictly to his determination not to enter into personalities or into a political controversy with Charles E. Hughes. All the speeches he will make away from Shadow Lawn

Buy-right Hints for the Housewife

The Return of the Appetite

There's a "ting" to the temperature these rare days are bringing, that makes our eyes bright, our step elastic, and that puts a keenly whetted edge on the appetite universal. Makes Mrs. Housewife turn to the market and grocery advertising in The Constitution with a renewed interest in good things to eat, and where to get them at the very lowest prices.

This special grocery and market advertising in The Constitution has become a very prominent feature of the paper; particularly is this true of the Saturday morning advertising, of which this morning's display is a shining example of what the grocery and market folks think of the advertising, and what the good Atlanta folks think of them. Just read over these representative lists. Every concern a criterion of quality; and without an exception every man of them exploding the fallacy of the high cost of living, in the remarkably low prices quoted on the wholesome staples, as well as the delicacies. These lists are your best guide to getting the best of good things to eat at the lowest prices quality will permit.

NOTE—The CONSTITUTION guarantees a marked saving on every purchase made in Atlanta in stores that advertise their lowest prices in these pages.

Man's Head Found, Detectives Face Another Mystery

With eyelids and lips sewed tightly together with catgut, the head of a man was found yesterday beside the Southern railway tracks near Peters street by a negro section employee of the road.

Thus came into being the latest of the series of "mysteries" which have kept the police department in a state of continual perturbation since the unexplained disappearance and murder of young John Wurm several months ago.

The head in question was found lying in a bunch of weeds and grass only a few feet from the railroad tracks. Its location, and the fact that no trace nor sign of the torso were in evidence, leads the police to believe that it was either cast from a passing car window, or had been designedly deposited there with a view to creating precisely that presumption.

Detective Bass Rosser immediately went to the spot and there had little difficulty in confirming the frightened negro's tale. The detective returned with the head, but with no semblance of a clew as to how it came to the spot where it was found.

One theory advanced is that the man in life may have been a member of a mysterious clan or cult, had, perhaps, "talked too much," and was decapitated by his enraged fellows and his lips and eyes sewed up as an impressive warning to others.

Another is—and the detectives regard this as the most plausible—that the head had been in a nearby medical school, where it had been used for demonstration or experimental purposes; that it was abstracted by a student who perhaps, intended taking it to his home or his private laboratory. On the train, the theory is, the custodian of the uncanny baggage, fearing the centering of suspicion upon him, cast the package from the window of the car in which he might have been riding.

The head bears every evidence of having been cut off for many weeks, and having been in some sort of "pickle," like alcohol, for instance. The skin is almost black, and the contour is characteristically Ethiopian, yet the authorities are not certain that it was not that of a white man.

The fact that the mouth and the eyes are sewed tightly, and apparently with catgut, adds only to the mystery.

KNOBLOCH CAUGHT AFTER LONG CHASE

New York, September 29.—After a search by federal secret service agents which has extended over the entire country, William Knobloch, who escaped from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta August 29 with "Lieutenant" Robert Fay, convicted bomb plotter, was arrested here tonight. He professed ignorance of the present whereabouts of Fay and declared they had no outside assistance in making their escape.

Knobloch had been trailed for three days by secret service men in the hope that he might communicate with Fay, but he failed to do so, and it was decided to take him into custody.

Knobloch told the special agents of the department of justice who arrested him that he and Fay were in hiding in the vicinity of the penitentiary for eight days after they escaped.

Fay and Knobloch Separate.

They then separated and Knobloch worked his way north, paying his way by obtaining odd jobs. He is an electrician by trade, but worked most of the time as an automobile mechanic. It was his intention to join his family in New Jersey, but he declared he was unable to find any trace of them.

Knobloch was convicted in Baltimore for using the mails to defraud and was sent to Atlanta in May of this year to serve a term of eighteen months. He is a native of New York. So far as known he was not connected with the bomb plots for which Fay was convicted.

Fay was sent to Atlanta for conspiring to destroy with bombs ships carrying munitions to the entente allies. He was sentenced on June 23 last to a term of eight years. Fay professed to have been at one time a lieutenant in the German army.

At the penitentiary Fay and Knobloch were employed in the power house. They escaped by use of forged passes on the pretense that they had been directed to repair a defective electric wire outside the walls.

Warden Fred Zerbst, of the federal prison, said last night: "I received a wire from the federal authorities in New York Friday night about 7 o'clock that they had Knobloch under arrest, and requesting that I send a man for him. I will send one of the officers from the prison for him probably Saturday at noon. They should be back in the city by Tuesday morning.

"The information I received said nothing of the details of his capture, and I do not know how it was accomplished. My information merely said he had been caught, and asked that I send for him. I have heard nothing of Lieutenant Fay, the German prisoner who escaped from the prison at the same time. I am hoping that the arrest of Knobloch will bring us some information as to the location of Fay. We will try to make him talk when he gets back to the prison."

KNOTT LEADING CATTS BY ONLY TWO VOTES

Tampa, Fla., September 29.—With recounts proceeding in several counties, W. V. Knott, the democratic nominee for governor, has an apparent lead of 2 votes over Sidney J. Catts, who was first declared nominee, only to be set aside by the state canvassing board on amended returns. Knott has secured mandamus for a recount in Catts' home county, Walton.

HARRIS EXPECTED TO IGNORE PROTEST

Governor Declares That "I See No Reason Why I Should Not Grant Commission to Captain Beck."

The statement of Governor Nat E. Harris yesterday in regard to the as yet unissued commission of Captain E. M. Beck, lieuteuant colonel-elect of the Fifth Georgia regiment at Camp Harris, Macon, indicates that the governor will likely disregard the protest of the three majors of the Fifth regiment, over whose heads the United States cavalry officer was elected, and grant the commission.

While the governor would not discuss the charges contained in the protests of Majors I. T. Catron, W. H. Leahy and W. J. Preston, which protest has never been made public, he stated:

"I see no reason why I should not grant the commission. Captain Beck seems to have been elected properly."

Governor Not at Office.

Governor Harris was detained at the executive mansion by illness and was not at his office. He stated over the telephone that a news dispatch from Macon to the effect that the governor's attitude in the matter had in any way been communicated officially by the governor, either to the military officals or the newspapers, was unwarranted. The governor declared that it is his purpose to take up the question of issuing the commission of Captain Beck and disposing of it as soon as he is able to get back to his office and his official duties.

The disposition of the governor to grant Captain Beck's commission would seem to indicate that the protest will not be referred back to Adjutant General J. Van Holt Nash for action, which would mean that in so far as the governor's office is concerned the dissatisfaction among the officials of the Fifth is hushed up and a closed incident.

May Press Investigation.

It was reported Friday that the majors will insist upon a complete investigation of their charges that Colonel Orville H. Hall, commanding the Fifth regiment, interfered unduly in regimental politics in the election of the lieutenancy to which the majors were logically eligible.

News dispatches from Macon state that none of the majors would discuss the protest which they have filed with the governor, but from Macon comes also a reliable report that unless the governor orders an investigation or returns the protest of the majors to the adjutant general for action, the majors will insist upon a full and complete investigation of the charges which they have made. The charges have not been made public, but it is reliably reported that they charge the colonel with "coercing" and "threatening" the line officers of the Fifth into voting for the federal cavalry officer rather than one of the majors, who has devoted years to the upbuilding of the regiment.

Such an investigation, it is stated, would mean a court-martial.

Should the governor refer the protest back to Adjutant General J. Van Holt Nash it is not known what action he will take in the matter. General Nash has declined to discuss the matter.

MAY MEAN COURT MARTIAL FOR MAJORS OF FIFTH.

Macon, Ga., Setember 29.—(Special.) The protest which the three majors of the Fifth regiment have made against the naming of Captain R. M. Beck as lieutenant colonel of the Fifth regiment bids fair to get them into trouble with the military authorities, according to talk going the rounds of the camp today.

Some of the military men, discussing the matter in unofficial capacity, said today that if any court martial proceedings are instituted they will be more likely be brought against the majors themselves rather than against Colonel Hall, whom the majors have charged with coercion and meddling in the election of the lieutenant colonel. There was much talk at the camp today about disgruntled and defeated candidates not showing the proper spirit over the outcome of the election.

The records of the three majors who are said to be protesting against the election of Captain Beck and which has resulted in the latter's commission being held up by Governor Harris, follow: Major Preston has served 25 years in the national guard, beginning as a private and has been a major nine years; Major Catron has been in the service fifteen years and has been a major nine years; Major Leahy has been in the national guard service for fourteen years and has been a major two and a half years.

It has been freely charged that General Harris is endeavoring to smooth the whole matter over to avoid a military scandal, but word today from the governor's office is to the effect that the delay in issuing Captain Beck's commission is not at the suggestion of General Harris, but results from the usual "red tape" through which it is necessary to go.

Preacher's Pleas Stopped One Mob, But Another Acted

Rev. Mr. Pierce Frustrated One Attempt to Lynch Negro, But the Second Mob Strung Up Rescued Negro and Companion.

Nowata, Okla., September 29.—Two negroes accused of being implicated in the killing of Deputy Sheriff James Gibson during a jail delivery here today, were taken from the jail and lynched in front of the courthouse tonight.

A first attempt to lynch one of the negroes, immediately after their capture, was frustrated by the Rev. Perry E. Pierce, who pleaded with the mob until the suspended negro was cut down, unconscious, but alive. The mob dispersed, reformed later and when the two prisoners had been taken from the jail short work was made of putting them to death.

With Dramatic Swiftness.

Events culminating in the double lynching moved with dramatic swiftness. Three negro prisoners escaped from the county jail late today. Sheriff James May discovered them, was knocked down and robbed of his pistol. Gibson went to his aid and was shot to death.

In a few minutes a mob bent on vengeance was in close pursuit of the negroes. Two of them took refuge in a house in the outskirts of Nowata. They were surrounded and captured. The third negro apparently escaped. One of the captured negroes, John Foreman, alleged to have killed Gibson, was wounded when caught and was not molested, but the unwounded negro was seized by the mob, which had grown to large proportions, and a parade through the principal streets began with the negro, at a rope's end, screaming for mercy. When the mob reached the Methodist church a large tree offered the opportunity the rope around the negro's neck suggested. "Let's lynch the negro on holy ground," shouted one man. The prisoner was swung clear and was being choked to death when Mr. Pierce appeared, attracted from his study by the negro's screams. He rushed into the midst of the crowd and began his pleadings for the seemingly doomed man's life.

Preacher Talked to Mob.

"Men, I beseech you in the name of God not to desecrate this holy ground," pleaded Mr. Pierce. "Do not stain the name of our city by going into this terrible affair."

With great earnestness he demanded that the law be allowed to take its course. Five minutes the pastor spoke, until one of the mob leaders, turning to his fellows, said: "Men, Mr. Pierce is right. Take the negro back to jail and let the law take its course."

The mob led the negro back to jail.

Nowata was quiet following the episode, but quiet was only the lull before a storm.

Shortly after the dinner hour Foreman and the negro who had been rescued from the mob in the afternoon were taken from the jail by another and larger mob of citizens. Foreman was strung up to a lamp post near the courthouse and the other negro was hanged from a tree a few feet distant. The sheriff was not at the jail when the mob sought entrance. The deputies left to guard the negroes were pushed aside and forced into submission.

Overcoats Proved Man's Best Friend On Friday Evening

Unless There Is a Rapid Change in Temperature, Stores Will Do Rushing Business Today in Heaviest of Winter Garments.

Br-r-r!

It can't be spelled, but to those who were on the streets of Atlanta Friday night, especially in the neighborhood of some sixteen-story skyscraper, the word doesn't have to be spelled.

It carries with it the best expression for c-o-l-d-n-e-s-s! And it certainly is applicable to the condition that existed in Atlanta Friday night.

Suddenly the temperature dropped. It not only got cool, but it got cold, and the cold was all the more felt because of the fact that it was unexpected. Pedestrians on the streets of Atlanta

POLICE PREPARED TO PRESERVE ORDER

Despite reports that there would be a "walkout" of the street car conductors and motormen yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, the cars continued running and the threatened "tie-up" of traffic failed to materialize.

Extra policemen were on hand at Five Points prepared to preserve order in the event a strike was called at that hour, and will continue to be vigilant today and tomorrow to prevent any disturbances. Labor leaders assert that there will be a strike unless the car company recognizes the union, but they have not yet made any statement as to the time when the men will quit work.

President R. E. Gann and Secretary Karl Karston, of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, called on Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Railway and Power company, Friday, and urged that the officials of the railway company give a hearing to a committee from the organization before 5 o'clock Friday afternoon. This committee was to represent the street car motormen and conductors in their grievances.

Arkwright Refuses Interview.

President Arkwright denied the request of the labor leaders, but agreed to meet a committee of employees of the railway company.

When asked what they would do last night, Secretary Karston replied:

"We were merely representing others in this affair. It is not the Atlanta Federation of Trades' fight, but we are anxious to do anything in our power to effect a settlement between the recently organized union among the street car men and the railway heads."

Mr. Arkwright denied that any union had been formed among the street car conductors and motormen, and stated he was perfectly willing to hear complaints from the employees of the street car company.

"We are willing to hear complaints at any time from our men," stated the railway chief. "But none are dissatisfied. There is no union among them—only the old electrical linemen have struck.

"Others are trying to force our motormen and conductors to go out on strike. The men are satisfied, and will not strike of their own volition."

Say There Is a Union.

Despite Mr. Arkwright's denial that a union has been organized among street car employees, the labor organizers assert that there is a union, and that it is meeting daily.

The police were on guard at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon in the vicinity of Five Points. Rumor had it that the street car men would quit their cars at this hour, and with sympathizers begin a demonstration in an effort to cause other employees to join their cause. It was planned, it was stated, to effect a "tie-up" of traffic during the heaviest traffic hour of the day, and in this way demonstrate to the public that their union had power.

For some reason these plans did not materialize, and the policemen remained idle, while home-going Atlantans were enabled to ride to their evening meals in comfort.

W. M. Pollard, official organizer of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, issued a statement Friday denying that the union members were planning any demonstration of violence at Five Points, as charged, Thursday, by President Arkwright in a statement given the press on that date.

Urge Preservation of Order.

The directors of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' association at a call meeting Friday drew up the following resolutions and the president was instructed to send a copy to the mayor, chief of police and to the three local papers for publication:

"Whereas, rumors are current in the street and the newspapers of Atlanta have mentioned the fact from time to time that there is trouble brewing between the Georgia Railway and Electric company and some of its employees who are out on a strike, and

"Whereas, the merchants of Atlanta are not interested in the dispute between the electric company and its employees, but as merchants and taxpayers are deeply interested in the maintenance and preservation of order. Be it

"Resolved, That we assure the police department that the merchants of Atlanta have full confidence in the ability of the authorities to preserve order, and we pledge ourselves to support the department to the full extent of our strength, individually and collectively, in seeing that order is maintained, and we call upon the police commissioners, chief of police and others in authority to see that the law is upheld."

St. Louis, September 29.—William H. Rooney, Nashville, was chosen vice president, and Frank A. Chambers, Chicago, secretary and treasurer.

DRIVING FOR BAPAUME ANGLO-FRENCH FORCES CAPTURE MORE GROUND

One Thousand Yards of German Trenches and Also a Strongly Defended Farm Occupied by British.

FIGHTING VERY HEAVY IN THIEPVAL REGION

British Forced From Section of "Hessian Trench," But Regained It Later. Over 500 Germans Captured in This Fighting. French Also Report More Progress.

New York, September 29.—(By Associated Press European Cable.)—Steadily the British troops are pushing forward toward the Peronne-Bapaume road, the main artery immediately behind the German lines north of Combles. After taking 500 yards of trenches southwest of Lesars, General Sir Douglas Haig's men made additional progress in the capture of 500 yards of German trenches east of Les Boeufs.

The British occupancy of the territory between Thiepval and the Ancre is being contested strongly by the Germans. A German counter attack after the entry of the British into a section of the Hessian trench resulted in the forcing out of the holders. The section was regained later, however, by the British, London says. Heavy fighting also has occurred around the Stuff redoubt.

Rain is hampering operations on the remainder of the Anglo-French front north of the Somme, according to official statements. Paris mentions no activity after the advance between Fregicourt and Morval toward Sailly, on the Peronne-Bapaume road.

INTENSE FIGHTING SUBSIDES IN EAST.

The intense fighting in the region of Korynitza, on the eastern front in Russia, appears to have ended. Berlin and Vienna say that the Russian prisoners have increased to 41 officers and 3,000 men. The forces under Prince Leopold of Bavaria here also took two cannon and thirty-three machine guns. Berlin records the repulse of a Russian advance near Goduzischki and Petrograd claims the defeat of a German attack near Gukalov. Fighting continues in the Carpathians, but there has been no change in the battle lines.

GERMANS DRIVEN FROM STRONG WORK BY BRITISH TROOPS

London, September 29.—East of Lesboeufs, on the Somme front, British troops have occupied 500 yards of German trenches, says the official statement issued by the British war office tonight. There was heavy fighting near Thiepval.

The British were forced from a section of the "Hessian trench," but regained it later. The statement adds that more than 500 prisoners were taken in this fighting.

The statement reads:

"Rain fell heavily today, and except for intermittent shelling, there was little activity on our center and our right wing of the battle front. Some slight progress was made east of Les Boeufs, where we occupied 500 yards of enemy trenches.

"In the Thiepval area there was heavy fighting around the Stuff redoubt. Having taken an important section of the Hessian trench, we were

GERMANS ATTACK U. S. NEUTRALITY

Attacks Follow Chancellor's Utterances About U-Boat Campaign—Death of Kiffen Rockwell Mentioned.

Berlin, September 29.—(Via London, September 30.)—Immediately on the heels of the utterances of the imperial chancellor in the reichstag concerning the submarine campaign the afternoon papers generally print criticisms of the neutrality of the United States, based on the news of the death of the American aviator, Kiffen Rockwell, and the presence of other American aviators on the western front.

They connect this evidence of American sympathy for the entente allies and the supplying of war materials by firms in the United States as an indication of the futility of concession to the American standpoint with regard to submarines. They declare that these facts show how American respect for neutrality is vanishing and how America is misusing the present form of submarine warfare to cover the active participation of American citizens in the war on the side of the entente allies.

"American Neutrality."

The Lokal Anzeiger under the heading "American Neutrality" prints the following:

"With a naivete, which must appear astonishing even in a war which overturns ordinary conceptions of international law and neutrality, The Paris Matin announces that Aviator Rockwell, one of the best known American airmen, has fallen in an air battle. The Matin does not attempt to dispute the fact, long known to us, that at Verdun

FROST JAILED HERE ON ALABAMA CHARGE

Jonathan B. Frost, formerly of Atlanta, an author, real estate man and former publisher of "The Call of the South" here, was arrested last night by City Detectives Cockran and Doyle and chief of detectives of Birmingham, T. J. Shirley, on a warrant from Birmingham, charging embezzlement, Frost having been indicted by the grand jury.

It is alleged that Frost has swindled the order of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, for which he has been holding the office of state organizer of Alabama, out of large sums of money, having gone about organizing groups of the order and failing to make the proper reports in recording names and turning in to the organization head, W. J. Simmons, large sums of collected money.

W. J. Simmons, imperial wizard, stated that Frost had come into the order in all good faith and taken the oaths.

"I worked fifteen years on the creation of the ritual and philosophy of the order and he has used these sacred things in acquiring mercenary gain.

"He was to have made a settlement and sent in reports of his work on July 17. He failed to make these reports and asked that he be allowed until August 7 to do the same, claiming that he was not ready to report. I agreed to wait for him. On August 6 I went to his hotel in Birmingham to see about the settlement, and I found that he had gone. They told me that he had gone to Nashville, Tenn."

Mr. Simmons said that Frost had been organizing a counterfeit organization in Kentucky and Tennessee, in doing which he had used certain cuts, it is charged, belonging to and designed by Simmons, of the mounted clansmen, and he is said to have called his new order the Ku Klux Knights and Ladies National Klan.

Frost had come to Atlanta and registered at the Piedmont hotel when the detectives took him into custody. Thinking that he was in Tennessee, authorities took out requisition papers for him on the governor of that state, and Frost is now being held at police headquarters until new requisition papers by the governor of Georgia can be obtained.

Frost said that the affair was trifling and trumped up, claiming that he called up Simmons to make an adjustment Friday afternoon and was shortly afterward arrested.

LEDUC IS COMMENDED FOR STANDING BY WIFE

Philadelphia, September 29.—Mrs. Joseph C. Leduc, of Chicago, who was seriously wounded in the triple shooting at a hotel here early Wednesday morning, was today reported as improved.

Hospital physicians said that if she continues to gain strength they will soon be able to perform an operation to extract the steel-jacketed bullet that is lodged between ribs on her left side.

Leduc, the husband, said today that he had received many telegrams commending him for the stand he had taken in upholding the honor of his wife. He visited her and remained as long as her condition permitted.

Relatives of Mrs. Harry Belzer, of New York, who shot Mrs. Leduc, killed J. C. Graveur and then committed suicide, are still making efforts to prove that Mrs. Belzer was a woman of honor.

THE SUNDAY CONSTITUTION

CARRIES THE

SOUTH'S BEST COMIC SECTION

The Original Katzies

Drawn by R. Dirks at his very best, and when The Katzies were making their reputation as the funniest colored comic ever drawn—before he had drawn them in every conceivable funny stunt and had begun to run short of new ideas. These comics have never been published in the south and hence are brand new to the readers of this section.

Just Boys

Is a brand new colored comic full of human interest and—BOY. If you are a boy you will recognize this chap right away; if you are a girl you'll see your little brother, and if you are a parent you will see your own "kid" in stunts that will bring to your mind home incidents that happen every day.

Dimples

You know "Dimples;" she has won her place in the hearts of every reader of The Sunday Constitution and no southern home is entirely happy Sunday until Dimples has made her appearance.

That Son-in-Law of Pa's

Is another new one, and the son-in-law is a pippin. Dad doesn't like him a little bit, but ma does, and that settles it—or rather starts it—for if ma didn't take the son-in-law's part there would be a widow in the family in a very short time.

The Great Magazine Section

Sunday's Constitution carries the most interesting magazine to be found in any southern newspaper—it appeals to every member of the family. Next Sunday's Constitution tells of Vaslav Nijinsky, the only man who has rivaled woman in the dance; "Message of the Stars for October;" "Which Section Produces the Real American Beauty;" "How Uncontrolled Emotions Hasten Old Age;" "Why Women Are More Revengeful Than Men;" "How British Women Are Winning the Great European War;" the ninth chapter of "The Yellow Menace;" the twelfth chapter of "The Grip of Evil," and how May Goelet, New York girl who is now the Duchess of Roxburghe, has won the favor of the Queen of England by frowning on the tango.

Don't miss Sunday's Constitution—it amuses, instructs and entertains. A quarter of a million people will read it—will you be one of them?

Modern Jean Valjean Faces Long Sentence For Stealing Cheese

Romance and Tragedy, Humor and Pathos, Play Havoc With Aspirations of Man Who Followed in Footsteps of Hugo's Hero.

Macon, Ga., September 29.—(Special.) Macon has a modern Jean Valjean.

And the story of Macon's Jean Valjean is equally as pitiable as that of Hugo's great character, for though the one lived, according to the author, many years ago, and the other lives, according to fact, in the year 1916, the circumstances of the cases are exactly similar.

Macon's Jean Valjean is represented in the person of Simon Cox, formerly a member of a local stock company and now a resident of the county jail.

In the story of the modern Hugo character is wrapped the threads of love, romance, humor and pathos. Two weeks ago Cox, then making the handsome salary of $25 per week, was married. Filled with enthusiasm over his stage successes and the opportunity which was offered, and with the pretty little wife added, life held for him all the glories and pleasures which his imagination could depict.

For two weeks the couple lived most happily. They made the $25 answer all needs and the world was beautiful.

Then—the weekly check from the stock company was discontinued, and Cox was up against it in true 1916 style. In the light of cold reality and in the face of a bare cupboard, the glamour of life faded.

And Cox was caught!

"The money ran out," Cox stated today, when he was bound over by Recorder Cunningham, "and we had to eat. I stole the cheese—and I got caught."

Cox is awaiting his trial at the county jail, being unable to make the $150 bond assessed by the court.

"DISLOYAL VOTES" BARRED BY WILSON

titled to know, he believes, what the republicans would do at present in Mexico, what attitude they would take about belligerent nations in Europe, whether they would repeal the federal reserve act, the tariff law, the rural credits act, the tariff commission bill, the 8-hour law for railroad employees, the child labor law, and other legislative acts of the democrats.

Although several days ago officials here said the president would take occasion to refer frequently to the settlement of the recently threatened railroad strike, it became known today that he has since decided not to dwell on this question as much as on other issues. The president believes that satisfactory settlements of pending international questions can only be embarrassed by partisan discussions of them.

No Direct Reply About Huerta.

For this reason, he is not expected to reply directly to the challenge issued by Mr. Hughes that he deny or confirm the charge that John Lind went to Mexico with orders to oust General Huerta. On this subject Mr. Wilson takes the position that Huerta was ousted, that the democratic administration opposed consistently and that, therefore, no reply is necessary.

In connection with international questions an authoritative denial was made here to statements that James W. Gerard, American ambassador to Germany, is coming here to discuss reports that Germany is about to renew submarine attacks on merchant vessels. It was said here that Mr. Gerard was returning to the United States only because he greatly needed a rest.

The members of the board created by congress to investigate the workings of the 8-hour law passed at the end of the last session will be appointed by the president within a few days. The selection of the members of the tariff commission, the shipping board, and of the commission created to administer the working men's compensation law for government employees, will be postponed until later.

The president received word today that John M. Parker, progressive candidate for vice president, plans to make speeches in opposition to Mr. Hughes. At first administration officials said the president himself had heard from Mr. Parker, but later it was stated that this was a mistake and that a letter announcing his intentions had been sent by Mr. Parker to Bainbridge Colby, of New York.

Statement by Parker.

New Orleans, September 29.—John M. Parker, progressive vice presidential nominee, denied over the telephone from his summer home at Pass Christian, Miss., late today the report from Long Branch, N. J., that he had offered to speak in support of President Wilson.

"I have not written to President Wilson or to any of his campaign managers offering to speak directly in his behalf," said Mr. Parker. "I did write recently to Bainbridge Colby, a New York progressive leader, stating that I was willing to be used in whatever way appeared best, and that when I went to New York I would speak against Mr. Hughes' candidacy. Of course, that would be in favor of Mr. Wilson, but I will speak as a progressive and not as an affirmative supporter of the democratic nominee."

Mr. Parker reiterated that he preferred Mr. Wilson over Mr. Hughes, but he said he did not expect to speak under the auspices of the democratic campaign committee.

GERMANY IN WAR UNTIL SHE WINS, SAYS CHANCELLOR

Bethmann-Hollweg Tells Reichstag There Must Be No Thought of Peace at Present — Styles Military Situation Favorable.

BRITAIN IS DENOUNCED IN BITTEREST TERMS

Bethmann-HollwegCharges Britain Hopes to Build World Dominion on Ruins of Germany—Rumania Described as Playing Judas Role.

Berlin, September 29.—(Via London.) Germany will persevere until victory is here, the reichstag was told yesterday by Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, according to the full text of his speech which was published here today. The chancellor declared that this year's harvest had made Germany's position much more secure than was the case last year.

In his attack upon Great Britain he declared that that country was breaking one international law after another and was above all Germany's "most egotistical, fiercest and most obstinate enemy."

"A German statesman," he said, "who would hesitate to use against this enemy every available instrument of battle that would really shorten this war —such a statesman should be hanged."

The chancelor declared his contempt for those circulating reports that all Germany's means of fighting were not being employed to the fullest possible extent. He added that "in order to disappoint the enemy, who is on watch for every breach of our inner determination," he would not give details.

Persevere and Win.

"When, in August, 1914," he went on, "we had to draw the sword, we knew we had to protect our hearths and homes against a mighty and almost overwhelming coalition. Ardent, and until then unknown and often ignored, patriotism flamed up in all hearts, defying death and certain of victory. Today, after two years of fighting, struggling, suffering and dying, we know more than ever before that there is only one watchword, namely, persevere and win. We will win. Last winter there was pusillanimous anxiety as to whether our foodstuffs would suffice. They have sufficed. This year's harvest makes us much more secure than was the case last year."

The chancellor said that he realized the troubles of the people coincident with the war and that he shared the deep sorrow for the fallen and mutilated. "I bow my head," he went on, "before the horizon with which women and men without distinction of rank or class bear their sacrifices united in an ardent love for the fatherland. Still more sublime and still greater is the defiance of death with which our sons and brothers in the field withstand the violent assaults of the enemy who, superior in numbers, are fighting with the utmost bravery world history—human history—has never before seen the like."

The chancellor declared that the German people again had an opportunity to show their appreciation of the heroism of the army by subscribing to the new war loan. He asserted that the nation firmly believed in the assurance of victory and was ready for any sacrifice. "I know we can also rely on the fighters behind the front," he said, "to give all their available money to support the gigantic work of our fighters in the field. With clenched fists but open hearts we will stand behind them, one man and one people."

Concluding his speech, the chancellor exclaimed:

"Germany will not be permitted to think of peace while her house is burning. She must first extinguish the fire."

After the chancellor had concluded the reichstag adjourned until October 5.

Intrigues of Rumania.

The chancellor alluded to the intrigues of Rumania and that country's declaration of war, saying: "Our relations with Rumania before the war were based on the treaty of alliance first concluded between Austria-Hungary and Rumania, and then enlarged by the accession of Germany and Italy. The contracting parties engaged under the treaty to assist each other in case of unprovoked attack by a third party.

"When the war broke out King Carlos with all his energy stood up for the idea that Rumania owed to the central powers thirty years of political security and wonderful economic development and that therefore Rumania must support the central powers, not only on account of the provisions of the treaty, but also for the sake of the country's honor. The late king regarded as sophistry the objection that Rumania had not been informed in regard to the Austro-Hungarian demarche in regard to Serbia and had not been consulted about it.

"But when the deciding session of the crown council was held the aged king did not succeed as against the government whose prime minister, notwithstanding treaty obligations, sympathized with the entente powers. A short time after the king died in consequence of the emotions caused by realization that Rumania was a traitor to her allies.

"The Rumanian policy was now guarded by Premier Bratiano, who attempted to gain riches without making sacrifices at the expense of the party suffering defeat in the war. The main point was to discover in time which party was about to win final victory in order not to be too late. Nevertheless during the first year of the war, probably after the fall of Lemberg, Premier Bratiano leaving his sovereign in ignorance, concluded a treaty of neutrality with Russia.

Judas-Like Treason.

"After the fall of Przemysl he thought the time had come to reach an understanding in regard to pay for Judas-like treason, but the negotiations failed. Russia desired to increase her own vast territory by taking Bukowina, while Rumania not only wished this same Bukowina, but also all Hungarian territory as far as Theiss."

The chancellor added that in spite of this failure Rumania's policy of neutrality favored the entente more and more. He said Rumania attempted to collaborate with the British efforts to establish a blockade of Germany, withholding grain purchased by Germany until the grain was obtained by means of energetic pressure. The premier again hesitated when the central powers, initiating the offensive in Galicia in the spring of last year, broke through the Russian line at Gorlice and was in doubt whether he had placed his wager on the right horse. Negotiations with the entente were almost suspended.

"The Russian offensive this pring," the chancellor continued, "made Premier Bratiano think he saw the breaking down of the central powers. Accordingly he decided to obtain a share when the robbery of the dead body began. Furthermore, the entente powers had a freer hand in conducting negotiations than others. Serbia had been conquered and the protectors of small, feeble states were no longer obliged to show any consideration for Serbia's former wishes in regard to the annexation of territory. They would be more liberal toward Rumania.

"In the middle of August, Bratiano came to terms with our enemies. He reserved for himself, however, the decision as to the time actual hostilities were to be inaugurated, and attempted to make it dependent on military conditions. The king of Rumania up to that time had repeatedly given the most binding assurances that under all circumstances he would remain neutral. Finally, the Rumanian minister in Berlin, on the order of the king, gave to me a formal declaration that the king desired to maintain Rumania's neutrality and that the government was in a position to do so. Premier Bratiano declared to the German minister at Bucharest, Baron Bussche-Haddenhausen, that he fully indorsed the declaration of the king.

Germany Not Deceived.

"However, we were not deceived. We were informed continuously in regard to Bratiano's negotiations during August and constantly directed the king's attention to the secret intrigues of his prime minister. The king declared several times that Bratiano was (not?) bound or binding himself to the entente. As late as three days before the declaration of war the king said to our minister that he knew the overwhelming majority of the Rumanian nation did not desire war. To an intimate friend the king declared on the same day in the most categorical fashion that he would not sign an order for mobilization.

"On August 26, the day preceding Rumania's declaration of war, the king said to the Austro-Hungarian minister that he did not wish war. I add in passing that Bratiano at the same time assured the Austro-Hungarian representative that he had decided to maintain neutrality and that the outcome of the session of the crown council which had been called for the following day would prove the truth of his words.

"As late as August 23 the entente powers had not decided at what moment Rumania ought to declare war. We knew this from a most reliable source. The Rumanian army still lacked preparedness and particularly lacked munitions, as was proved later at the time of the fall of Turtukai and Silistria.

"Then events were precipitated. From information which may be considered reliable it appears that Russia suddenly presented an ultimatum that she would cross the unprotected Rumanian frontier if Rumania did not begin war before August 28. Whether this ultimatum was a piece of comedy prearranged with Bratiano in order to influence the hesitating king, I leave undecided, but the die was cast.

"Mr. Briand (premier of France) in his latest discourse praised the beauty and loveliness of Rumania's procedure. Political conditions of such a nature that orders of kings and ministers amount to nothing show the doubtful value of those ideals of liberty, justice and civilization for which the entente pretends that it fights. Since the beginning of the world war Rumania has followed a policy of piracy, depending upon the general war situation. Rumania's military capitulation will prove as mistaken as her political capitulation to her entente friends, which already has been proved to have been wrong. They must have hoped earnestly that Rumania's participation in the war would cause the defection of Bulgaria and Turkey, but Turkey and Bulgaria are not the same as Rumania and Italy. Firm and inviolable stands their faithfulness as allies, and they have won glorious victories in Dobrudja."

Military Situation Reviewed.

Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg then reviewed the military situation.

"Since the beginning of July," he said, "English and French attacks on the Somme have raged almost without interruption. The common offensive of the entente enemies wanted to break through the front of the hated Germans, free France and Belgium and carry the war across the Rhine into Germany.

"But what has happened? The French and English have gained advantages and have pushed back our first lines some kilometers. We deplore the heavy losses in men and material. This, however, is unavoidable in the face of an offensive planned on such a broad scale. But what our enemies hoped and attempted did not succeed. Our front was not broken nor rolled up, but stands firm and unshaken. Heavy and violent is the fighting there on the Somme and the end is not yet in view. Further sacrifices are necessary. This or that trench and this or that village may be lost. But they will not push through our lines. This is assured by our commanders and by the incomparable bravery of the troops from all parts of Germany.

"On the eastern front the great Russian attempt to break through was stopped by the troops of Archduke Charles and General von Linsingen. Attacks west of Lutsk on the Narayuvka river and in the Carpathians then followed, but they also broke down.

"There also the fighting will continue. There also it is absolutely certain that the line will be maintained by the heroism of our armies.

"In the Balkans the entente powers planned to split our alliance, to interrupt communication between Germany and the Near East, to crush Bulgaria, Turkey and Austria-Hungary one after the other, and then to throw all their forces against isolated Germany."

The chancellor at this point asked what had been gained by the army of General Sarrail (the French commander at Saloniki) and by Rumania's "treason," and answered the question as follows:

"The situation of our faithful, brave allies is unshaken. Austria-Hungary stands together with us on the eastern front from Lake Narocz to Transylvania. The Turks are fighting in Galicia. German, Bulgarian and Turkish troops have defeated the Rumanians in Dobrudja. Bulgarian, German and Turkish troops have fought their way to Macedonia.

"The plan of the entente powers to force a decision in Dobrudja and Macedonia and was frustrated as soon as it began. The Saloniki army has been able to make only feeble advances. The Germans, Bulgarians and Turks in Dobrudja marched to the northward, while our enemies hoped that the Russians and Rumanians would march to the southward.

"To sum up: On the Somme front there have been isolated hostile successes, which, however, do not change the general situation. Otherwise a successful defense has been made against all hostile attacks, and thus the enemy attempts have been thwarted. In the Balkans the hostile plan failed. Thus the enormous war goes on.

"The aims proclaimed by our enemies are becoming increasingly clear, and admits of no misunderstanding. They are: Lust of conquest and annihilation. I have spoken in this house repeatedly about them. It is proposed to give Constantinople to Russia, Alsace-Lorraine to France, the Trentino and Triest to Italy, and Transylvania to Rumania."

Defensive War for Germany.

The chancellor insisted that from the very beginning the war had been for Germany "nothing but defenses of our right to life and liberty," and said that therefore Germany, the first and only one of all the belligerents, had declared her readiness for peace negotiations on December 9, 1915, and on several occasions subsequently.

"We did our duty," he continued. "Does any one dare ask that today we make proposals to our enemies, inasmuch as M. Briand a short time ago said that consideration of peace now would be a humiliation and a disgrace to the memory of the dead?

"They continue the war because they hope to attain their Utopian aims. Their lust of conquest persists, if the mountains of corpses tower higher every day.

"The French prime minister said in one of his latest speeches that France is fighting for a firm and lasting peace in which the freedom of nationalities will be protected by international agreements against all attacks. We, too, desire this. We wish to protect Germany forever against every attack. But does M. Briand—united with our enemies even before the war in an alliance of French thirst for revenge, Russian lust of conquest and the British policy of isolating Germany and dominating the whole world, an alliance that desires to annihilate, attempts to boycott and shapes its entire policy not only for the period of the war, but for the time after the war—does M. Briand believe that this prepares soil from which could grow international agreements granting to nations liberty, honor, dignity and peaceful collaboration for the sake of humanity and progress? Or does M. Briand really believe he can obtain this lofty ideal in time by a war of annihilation in which the last of the youth of France is perishing on the devastated battlefields of Verdun and the Somme?"

The Kaiser and Russia.

The chancellor then protested against reports that the German emperor had used his influence with the Russian emperor in order to impede Russia's evolution toward liberty.

"This report is untrue, I state publicly in this place," he said. "It is the opposite of the truth. The arrangement of public life in Russia, whether autocratic or constitutional, is merely Russia's business. I abstain completely from criticism. I represent only German interests. What we desire from other nations, no matter whether they live in this or that form of state, is that German rights and interests shall be inviolable."

Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg then discussed the aims of Great Britain.

"What Great Britain wants to make of Germany," he said, "is shown by the British without possibility of doubt. They want to destroy our national life. The Germany which England wants to lay at her feet is a country without military defense, a country crushed economically, boycotted by the entire world and sentenced to lasting economic infirmity.

"When this German competition shall have been eliminated, when France has lost all her blood, when all her allies of war must toil as England's slaves in the financial life, when the neutral world of Europe must follow each English command and submit to every British blacklist then England will build on devastated Germany her dream of English world dominion.

"This is the aim for which England is fighting with forces and means unparalleled in her history, adding one breach of international law to another. Therefore England is our most egotistic, our most bitter and our most tenacious enemy.

"A German statesman who would refrain from using against this enemy every proper means of warfare which is apt to shorten the war deserves to be hanged."

All Means of Warfare Used.

The chancellor protested against reports that for any reason whatever all means of warfare were not being used as fully as possible. He declined to enter into public discussion which recently had arisen on this subject, saying the times were too grave.

The chancellor said that the English starvation blockade had failed and that the provisionment of the German nation had been improved by the recent harvest.

Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg acknowledged the "heroism with which the German nation bears its burdens of war and especially the heroism with which our sons and brothers on the front withstand the furious attacks on our fighters in the field. With clenched fists but open hearts we will stand behind them, one man and one people."

Concluding his speech, the chancellor exclaimed:

"Germany will not be permitted to think of peace while her house is burning. She must first extinguish the fire."

After the chancellor had concluded the reichstag adjourned until October 5.

NOT A WORD ON BELGIUM BY GERMAN CHANCELLOR

London, September 29.—The address of the German imperial chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, in the reichstag is more remarkable for what it omitted than for what it said, according to Lord Robert Cecil, minister of war trade, who in discussing the speech with the Associated Press today declared the most significant utterance was his failure to mention Belgium. Lord Robert said:

"There is a very definite change in the tone of the speech over the previous efforts of the chancellor. The talk of a complete German victory is entirely absent. Another remarkable thing was that there was not a word about Belgium. The significance of this is probably that he was unable to say anything about Belgium, as his listeners can be assumed to be the whole world, and he was bound to offend a section of it if Belgium was mentioned. If he attempted to justify German occupation he would offend the best of all neutral opinion, and he equally would offend his own people if he expressed an option to give up that country.

Nothing Really New.

"Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg's denunciation of England, while violent, contained nothing really new. It was merely the old trick of attempting to convince our allies that we are trading on their efforts and bleeding them to death in the process; but recent events on the Somme ought to convince him of his error. The idea that we want world supremacy is fantastic."

Lord Robert continued: "Anyone can readily see that we made no preparation for any such contest for world supremacy.

"I note in the portion of the speech devoted to efforts for peace that my name is used, but I cannot understand his complaint. That Germany was once ready for peace means nothing, as naturally everybody is always ready for peace on his own terms. There will be no peace as long as Germany is content to be ruled by a military caste."

Discussing the reference in the chancellor's speech to the death of the king of Rumania, the minister of war trade said:

"Of course, it is quite possible that the strain imposed by the war have caused his death, as the king was an old man, but it is also quite possible that that theory of the cause of death may be based on Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg's imagination."

Lull in U-Boat Warfare.

Lord Robert stated that he believed the German imperial chancellor was sincere in his declaration that Germany was waging war with every possible instruments. Continuing, he said:

"The lull in submarine warfare is due to a shortage in submarines, and it is always increased when instruments are at hand. The only change I note is that no British passenger liner has been sunk since the Sussex.

"The number of submarine victims has been increasing steadily in the last three months, and our allies and neutrals have suffered virtually as much as we have. In June the British lost two ships without warning; the other allies lost one without warning and neutrals lost five, including three without warning. The figures for July show the Britsh lost two that were not warned and neutral countries nine. In August the British lost one without warning and neutrals twenty-six. To September 24 the British lost five vessels without warning and neutrals twenty-six.

"Eighty-one British lives were lost during the period covered above. During August and September Norway lost thirty-three ships with a total tonnage of 47,000 tons; Sweden lost eleven, Denmark seven, Holland three, Spain five and Greece six."

TAPP WILL PREACH TO AMERICAN PEOPLE THROUGH MOVIES

Purposing through the medium of the motion picture film to "preach to more people each week than all the ministers of the Christian world," and "to do for the race, morally, spiritually and mentally, through the movies what Edison has done for the race commercially and scientifically, through electricity," Sidney C. Tapp, former Atlanta attorney, now head of the Sidney C. Tapp International Biblical society, Kansas City, Mo., is negotiating with two motion picture companies to have his book, "The Truth About the Bible," projected upon the screen.

His plan is to have his book exploited in the "movie" houses throughout this country and Europe immediately the war shall end, and he says he is undecided as to what company he will close a contract with, saying that "I want to get the best company possible and the best possible terms."

"The purpose of it is," says Tapp, "to educate the race in the sexology of the Bible, as I have written it in this book, and as a means of reducing crime and insanity."

YOUTH OF 19 TO FACE BLIND TIGER CHARGE

Clint Smith, 19, of 51 West Georgia avenue, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Sergeant Bullard, charged with being the owner of numerous cans of whisky which the detectives discovered Thursday at 24 Temple street. The prisoner had a pistol, which, the police say, belongs to the New York police department.

GERMANS ARE TOO HARD FOR ALLIES TO CRACK

That's Opinion of Prince Rupprecht, of Bavaria, Who Commands on the Somme.

Berlin, September 28.—(Via London, September 29.)—The latest fighting on the Somme evidently has not shaken the confidence of the German military leaders in their ability to prevent a breach in their line. The Berliner Tageblatt's special war correspondent interviewed Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, commander of the German forces on the Somme, Tuesday, and the crown prince's utterances expressed complete confidence in the situation for the present and the future.

The crown prince is quoted as having said that since the offensive began the entente allies had gained some ground, but there could be no thought of this decisively changing the situation.

"It is impossible to predict how things will go hereafter," said Prince Rupprecht, "but one thing is certain, namely, that we have everything so thoroughly prepared that we are able to contemplate the situation with equanimity, whatever comes. The offensive will certainly not reach an early end.

"We can reckon upon an offensive of great persistence and with heavy attacks, accompanied by an enormous expenditure of ammunition. But we have taken precautions. Our artillery has been reinforced, and likewise our aeroplane corps, and our flyers have had fine successes in the last few days, although they have had hard fighting against increased numbers. Our artillery derives advantages from the successful work of the aeroplanes, after having formerly been much exposed to observation by hostile aviators.

"Our troops have been striking with the utmost strength, and the enemy has found the nut too hard to crack. It is my distinct opinion that the enemy is trying to force a decision at this spot, and during this year, and he has not yet succeeded. He will have to put up with a winter campaign and continue his fighting next year."

JACKSON DREAMS G. O. P. HAS CHANCE FOR BIT OF GEORGIA

(By John Corrigan, Jr.)

Washington, September 29.—(Special.)—Henry S. Jackson, republican national committeeman from Georgia, is seeking to have the campaign committee make an active fight in Georgia to capture some electoral votes for candidate Hughes.

In line with this purpose, he gave out an interview here, saying that at the present time "the democrats of Georgia are not inclined to favor the administration." He does not want to be put in the position of "claiming Georgia for Hughes," but does contend that Georgia will send two republicans to the lower house of congress, meaning from the districts now represented by Thomas M. Bell and Gordon Lee. It is true that oftentimes these districts vote for the head of the republican ticket, but always they elect democratic congressmen.

The intoxication of fall time in Georgia would undoubtedly be promoted by the presence of a republican "barrel," but it is not probable that the Wilcox organization will waste any funds trying to capture the will o the wisp of Hughes electoral votes in that state.

NOT SO EASY TO EVADE U. S. CHILD LABOR LAW

Washington, September 29.—Secretary Wilson, a member of the board of three cabinet members designated to draft regulations putting the new child labor law into effect, issued a statement tonight replying to assertions that the law easily could be evaded by holding products in storage for thirty days after their manufacture. Those who attacked the law, he said, failed to distinguish between producing plants and warehouses which might be located under the same roof and still be distinct under the meaning of the provision barring from interstate commerce any product removed from a plant in which child labor had been employed within the thirty days previous. He declared that any removal, therefore, of a commodity from the point where it was produced by child labor, even though it was stored a foot away for thirty days or any other period, and would make it forever inacceptable in interstate commerce.

How Prettily the Young Folk Can Be Dressed This Fall

With the Help of the Junior Department (Third Floor)

There is a something about the suits, the dresses, the coats, the hats, the sweaters, that make up the displays of the Junior Department this fall, a something that is hard to put in words.

But it is ever so impressive to one who leisurely and easily examines this and that.

Call it an air of refinement, or what you will, the thought comes home that the young folk of Atlanta can be prettily dressed this fall.

We have worked ever so hard to accomplish this end—and what is equally true we have worked knowingly and sympathetically, with mind, eye, hand and heart trained and eager to get right styles and right values for the young folk.

So bring them in today to this, their own shop, and see how we have fixed ourselves to serve you and them.

Suits

Prices, $5.75, $7.50 to $39.50.

Hats

Felt hats that "weathery" school days will not frighten, velvet hats, plush hats; quaint little pokes shirred all about; others touched with flowers and bows and even ostrich tips; sailors that are wonderfully imitative of the grown-ups, yet decidedly youthful.

Prices, $4.50, $5.75 to $19.50.

Sweaters

Perhaps we should tell of the many, many kinds of woolen sweaters, but a certain few fibre silk sweaters that have just come in claim particular attention. Plain and belted styles, they come in such rich colors as rose and Copenhagen blue, purple and gold—collars and belts are striped.

Prices, $5.75 to $6.75.

Wash Dresses

Away from the ordinary! Such they are, either by virtue of the pattern or coloring of the gingham, chambray or galatea or by some little trick of fashioning. Every color—in sizes one to fourteen years.

BULGARS STOPPED BY SERBIAN FIRE

New York, September 29.—(By Associated Press European Cable.)—In Macedonia the entente allied troops are withstanding Bulgarian attacks. The Serbians have checked four attacks against positions on the Kaimakcalan plateau and the French have withstood assaults along the Broda river.

Comparative quiet is reported in Dobrudja province, where the Bulgar-German forces are opposing the Rumanians and Russians.

In Transylvania the Austro-Germans have repulsed the Rumanians at Hermannstadt. Vienna says the Teutonic forces also have occupied the heights east and southeast of the town after violent fighting. The battle in this section, however, continues.

SERBIANS CHECK STRONG ATTACKS BY BULGARIANS

Saloniki, September 29.—(Via London.)—Despite violent attacks by the Bulgarians, the Serbians hold the highest peak of the Kaimakcalan ridge, says an official statement, issued by the Serbian war office.

The statement follows:

"On the night of September 27 the Bulgarians undertook four fierce attacks on the Serbian Drina division. All were repulsed with heavy losses. The highest peak of Kaimakcalan, called by the Serbians Crown Prince Boris, is still in Serbian hands. Exhausted by their attacks, the Bulgarians did not resume them yesterday.

"Serbian soldiers testify that the Bulgarians slaughtered all Serbian wounded taken by them in the Kaimakcalan battles."

Paris, September 29.—On the Saloniki front the Serbians repulsed four Bulgarian attacks on Kaimakcalan, according to a statement issued today by the French office.

The announcement follows:

"From the Struma to the Vardar there were no events of importance. On Kaimakcalan height the Bulgarians renewed their attacks during the night of September 28. Four times the Serbians hurled back the attacking troops into the trenches from which they started inflicting heavy losses on them.

"Further south, in the district of the River Broda, an enemy attack was completely defeated.

"On our left wing the artillery struggle is proceeding actively without any infantry actions.

London, September 29.—The following official account of the Macedonian operations was issued here today:

"The bridges at Orljak and Kopriva were shelled by the enemy. An attempt by enemy patrols to approach Kopriva was unsuccessful. Our artillery dispersed working parties near Ormanli. Patrol encounters in the Neohorie area resulted in our favor, some Bulgarians being killed and others captured.

"On the Doiran front there were no developments. Enemy aircraft displayed considerable activity."

SUCCESS CLAIMED BY BULGARIANS.

Sofia, September 28.—(Via London, September 29.)—Bulgarian successes on the western end of the Macedonian front are announced in the statement issued today by the Bulgarian war office.

In an engagement on the Kaimakcalan ridge, in which the Serbians were repulsed, two guns and numerous machine guns were captured by the Bulgarians.

The statement follows:

"Macedonian front: We repulsed the enemy's left wing to the Stara Neretska Planina and occupied the line of the Listz mountain and Ischitschewo mountain.

"On the Florina front there has been vigorous artillery firing.

"On the Seikowgrob mountain ridge, on Kaimakcalan height, we repulsed the enemy, capturing two guns and many machine guns and trench mortars.

"In the Moglenica valley there was vigorous artillery activity. Along the other fronts nothing important occurred."

The battle there has not yet been concluded. The statement follows:

"The Rumanians have been repulsed at Hermannstadt. The heights south and southeast of the town, after violent fighting, are in possession of the allies (Teutons), but the battle has not yet been concluded."

"In Dobrudja there was minor artillery activity.

"On the Black sea two enemy torpedo boats shelled the town of Mangalia for forty-five minutes. Several houses were destroyed and a child was killed."

ENEMY RETREATED, RUMANIANS CLAIM.

Bucharest, September 29.—(Via London, September 30.)—The official communication issued today by the Rumanian war office follows:

"Southern front: Our artillery sank an enemy warship in the canal south of the Island of Pepsina (in the Danube river southwest of Giurgevo). In Dobrudja there were patrol engagements.

"Hostile aeroplanes bombed Tzernavoda, Alexandria and villages of Bucharest. An enemy areoplane was brought down near Padosu in the Mehediutzi department. An enemy aeroplane arrived at Ballestzi (in southwestern Rumania) from the direction of Saloniki."

An official communication issued yesterday said:

DRIVING AT BAPAUME, ALLIES GAIN GROUND

"In this section during the last twenty-four hours we have taken prisoner eight officers and 521 men.

"In spite of the weather our aeroplanes have done useful work attacking the enemy's reinforcements on the move. Yesterday enemy aircraft patrolled actively behind their own lines, but showed little enterprise. One enemy machine was destroyed. One of our own machines has not returned."

An attack by British troops on the Somme front early today resulted in the capture of a strongly defended farm 500 yards southwest of Lesars, the war office announced in a previous report.

The official statement follows:

"The night was quiet on the greater part of our front. The positions we have won north of Thiepval were heavily shelled. Our bombing parties were active in the neighborhood of the Schwaben redoubt and the Hessian trench, parts of which are still held by the enemy.

"A strongly defended farm 500 yards southwest of Lesars was captured by our troops early this morning.

"North of Ypres (two miles south of Bertincourt) and southeast of Bapaume our aeroplanes observed a huge explosion as if a large ammunition dump had blown up. The smoke ascended 9,000 feet."

The text of the statement follows:

"On the Somme front our troops scored fresh progress between Fregicourt and Morval. Both north and south of the river there have been artillery engagements of varying intensity.

"Everywhere else the night was quiet.

"During the day yesterday a Fokker aeroplane was attacked by our pilots and crashed to the ground north of Rheims. Another Fokker was hit and badly damaged and dived head first into its own line."

The official communication issued by the war office tonight reads:

"The day was comparatively quiet on the whole front. Bad weather is hampering operations.

BRITISH REPULSED, GERMANS REPORT.

Berlin, September 29.—(Via London.) The repulse of a strong British attack on the Somme front is reported in today's official announcement which follows:

"Army Group of Prince Rupprecht: After the sanguinary repulse of the enemy's attacks on Wednesday the battle of the Somme slackened considerably yesterday. A strong British attack between the Ancre and Courcellette was repulsed on the western wing in hand-to-hand fighting with the loss of a small trench section. Northwest and north of Courcellette the attack broke down under our fire.

"A weak attack near Faucourt L'Abbaye also failed."

GERMANS ADMIT LOSS OF COMBLES.

London, September 29,—A Reuter dispatch from Amsterdam quotes German war correspondents as admitting the German loss of Combles. The Frankfurter Zeitung says that the defenders, a regiment strong, escaped to the German lines during the night, although surrounded by the Anglo-French forces.

Herr Wegener, in The Cologne Gazette says that Thiepval was voluntarily evacuated.

RUSSIAN AIRMEN SCATTER BOMBS ON THE GERMANS

Petrograd, September 29.—(Via London.)—An official statement issued today by the Russian war department says:

"Western front: In the region of Boruny and Krevo, southwest of Smorgon, our aviators made a raid on points in the rear of the enemy's lines. Bombs were successfully dropped at various places, causing explosions and fires among the enemy's stores. Bombs also were dropped on wagons, on narrow gauge railway stations and on motor car transports.

"During the raid an aerial fight took place, as the result of which four German aeroplanes were brought down. One of our machines after a fight with two aeroplanes of the Albatross type fell in the enemy's line. In addition we lost a machine of the Moran parasol type.

"In the neighborhood of Gukalov the enemy, after an intense artillery bombardment, our trenches assumed the offensive. Being met by our rifle and machine gun fire, he retired hurriedly to his trenches.

"On the River Bystritza, in the region of Bogorodchan, our scouts surprised three field sentries and defeated the enemy advanced posts, capturing in this operation several scores of prisoners, twenty rifles and 300 cartridges.

"On the rest of the front there was nothing of importance."

NO CHANGE, GERMANS SAY.

Berlin, September 29.—(Via London.) On the Russian and Galician fronts there was no change of importance, according to the statement issued today by the German war office.

The statement follows:

"Army group of Prince Leopold: Apart from a weak and fruitless Russian advance northeast of Goduzischki and revived artillery activity at certain points, there is nothing to report. The number of Russians captured Wednesday near Korytniza has increased to 41 officers and more than 3,000 men, while the amount of booty taken has increased to two cannon and thirty-three machine guns. (Yesterday's statement reported the capture of 2,800 men, one cannon and seventeen machine guns.)

"The army of General von Tersztanszky on Wednesday captured forty-one Russian officers, more than 3,000 men, 33 machine guns and two cannon."

COVERED BY MIST, AUSTRIANS RUSH AT ITALIAN LINES

Rome, September 29.—(Via London.) "In the Adige valley the activity of the enemy's artillery and infantry detachments is increasing," says the official statement from the war office today. "Our batteries replied effectively.

"In the Astico valley we continue to keep the summit of Monte Cimone under our artillery fire.

"Yesterday afternoon enemy forces under cover of a thick mist attempted a strong surprise attack against our advanced position north of Gardinal, at the head of the Vanci Cismon valley. They were decisively driven back, as was an attack by Kaiserjaeger detachments against our positions at Punta del Forame at the head of the Felizon valley of the Boite.

"On the Carso plateau the enemy failed completely in repeated attempts during the night to approach our lines."

ITALIANS REPULSED, AUSTRIANS REPORT.

Vienna, September 29.—(Via London.) The Austrian war office says in its statement of today regarding operation against the Italians:

"Italian theater: On the Carso plateau there was strong Italian gun fire and mine throwing against our positions in the region behind them. On the front in the Fimme valley, the enemy, under cover of a dense fog, attacked Gardinal and Cima Busa Alta, but was repulsed.

"The summit of Monte Cimone has been subjected continuously to heavy artillery fire. Notwithstanding this, the rescue of those buried has been successful. Our gallant troops, contending with the greatest difficulties, dug out seven Italians, who were exhausted completely.

"Southeastern theater: The situation is unchanged."

ARTILLERY DUEL BETWEEN TURKS AND THE BRITISH

"On the Felahie front (Mesopotamia) the artillery duel has become more intense.

"On the Caucasus front there were encounters between reconnoitering parties on our right wing, as well as an intermittent artillery duel. We took some prisoners. In the center we repulsed by a counter attack a surprise attack carried out by the enemy under cover of a blinding snowstorm. On our left wing we occupied part of the enemy's advanced line.

"There were no events of importance on the other fronts."

SUGAR FAMINE FACED BY NASHVILLE PEOPLE

Nashville, Tenn., September 29.—With the stock of sugar completely depleted in Nashville, wholesale and retail merchants are confronted with a serious problem. There is not a pound of sugar on the market and none in transit. It is said that shortage of cars at New Orleans is responsible for the famine. Refineries there today notified wholesalers in this city that their stock is in no way impaired, but they were unable to arrange for transportation of the product. The supply in the hands of Nashville merchants is said to be sufficient for only a few days.

Killed His Father-in-Law.

Ruston, La., September 29.—Nolan Goyne was placed in jail here today charged with the murder yesterday of his father-in-law, Francis Hinten, at the latter's home in Douglas, this parish. It was charged that Goyne stabbed Hinten to death with a pair of scissors. Goyne told the authorities he acted in self-defense.

NINE-YEAR-OLD BOY KILLED BY MACHINE

Ira Pickett Ran in Front of Automobile While Trying to Pick Up His Ball, Say Witnesses.

Ira Pickett, the 9-year-old son of Alexander S. Pickett, manager of the Metropolitan hotel, was struck by an automobile Friday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock in front of 1412 DeKalb avenue, and died at 7 o'clock Friday night at the Grady hospital.

The driver of the car lives in Marietta, Ga. After seeing that the child was carried to a hospital he gave his name to Dr. Linton Smith, who had been called, and then drove on. The doctor told the police later that he had forgotten the name, but said that the driver worked for some chair company in Marietta.

The only eyewitnesses of the occurrence was an old negro man, Zack Robinson, of 55 Old Wheat street, and some small boys who had been playing with the Pickett child in the corner lot near No. 1412. The negro told the police that the child had run out into the street, apparently after a ball, and had run in front of the automobile.

The child suffered from a concussion at the base of the brain.

The funeral services of the little boy will be held Saturday afternoon at the residence on DeKalb avenue. He is survived by his parents and one brother.

Girl Reporter Kills Republican Leader For Alleged Remarks

Miss Colby Says That G. O. P. Chairman Thomas Had Reflected on Her Character.

Thompson Falls, Mont., September 29. A. C. Thomas, chairman of the republican central committee of Sanders county, died in a hospital at Missoula today from a pistol shot fired by Miss Edith Colby, a reporter on a local paper. Miss Colby is in jail.

Thomas died without making any statement regarding the shooting. Senator Edward Donlan, of Missoula, a friend of Thomas, said the affair was a renewal of a long political fight.

The preliminary hearing of Miss Colby was continued today until October 5. Miss Colby, on advice of her attorney, did not enter a plea when taken into court. She did not ask to be released on bail and was returned to jail.

Miss Colby has stated that Thomas had made remarks that reflected on her character. J. Manire, editor of the newspaper that employed Miss Colby, also has been arrested and is in jail. The sheriff announced that he had been told by Miss Colby that Manire had advised her to kill Thomas, who was opposed politically to Manire.

PARTY REGULARITY REQUIRED IN FUTURE OF KENTUCKIANS

Frankfort, Ky., September 29.—Kentucky voters hereafter will be forced to observe a strict party regularity if they wish to take part in primaries at which candidates of their party are nominated, according to a decision handed down late today by the Kentucky court of appeals.

The court ruled, in connection with an election case brought before it from a lower court, that a voter casting his ballot against any one of his party's candidates at an election forfeited his right to take part in the next succeeding primary.

Do you want a clear skin?

If your skin is not fresh, smooth and glowing, or has suffered from an unwise use of cosmetics, here is an easy, inexpensive way to clear it:

Spread on a little Resinol Ointment, letting it remain for ten minutes. Then wash off with Resinol Soap and hot water. Finish with a dash of clear, cold water to close the pores. Do this regularly, once a day, and see if it does not quickly soothe and cleanse the pores, lessen the tendency to pimples, and leave the complexion clear, fresh and velvety.

Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment are sold by all druggists. For samples of each, free, write to Dept. 8-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

SUBMARINE BREMEN MAY BE AT BOTTOM

Life Preserver Marked "Bremen" Picked Up Off Maine Coast—Observer Apparently New and Oil-Stained.

Portland, Maine, September 29.—A life preserver marked "Bremen," the name of the German submarine freighter, which has been generally expected to arrive at some Atlantic coast port for the past week or more, was picked up on the ocean side of Cape Elizabeth today. The name "Bremen" was stencilled in black letters two inches high on both sides of the buoy. On one side of the canvas covering was printed a small crown. Over this were the words "schutz-marke," meaning patented or trade-mark. Beneath were the words, "V. Epping Hoven, Wilhelmshafen." This indicated, apparently, the name of the maker.

The preserver seemed to be new and apparently had not been in the water a great length of time. It was stained with oil. An officer of the coast guard cutter service who examined the buoy said that if the preserver had been thrown overboard by someone whom thought to play a practical joke, he had done a very good job.

The preserver was well made and the lettering and the ink were of the best quality.

The buoy was picked up at a small place known as Maiden Cove by a 10-year-old lad of Westbrook. A number of other persons were nearby at the time and saw the boy pick up the object from the beach near the water's edge. The buoy was later taken to a newspaper office, where it was photographed and examined by many seafaring men.

New London, Conn., September 29.—Officials of the Eastern Forwarding company, American agents for the German line of submarine merchantmen, were undisturbed tonight over the report that a life preserver marked "Bremen" had been picked up off the Maine coast. When asked if the preserver might have belonged to the long-expected submarine, Captain F. Hinch said "Impossible." He added that it was unlikely that the Bremen's preservers would be marked in the manner of the one found.

SUBMARINE SIGHTED IN LONG ISLAND SOUND.

Westerly, R. I., September 29.—A fisherman at Pleasant View, near Watch Hill, overlooking Long Island sound, reported tonight that he had seen with his marine glass a large submarine proceeding in the direction of New London, where the German submarine Bremen has been expected for more than a week. She was then 25 miles east of New London and showed on her mast a bright white light above a green light.

These lights, according to the observer, were the ones he had been told by Captain Robinson, of the tug Westerly, would be carried by the German submarine which the tug some days ago had been ordered to look for.

The submarine was unaccompanied and displayed no flag. The observer, who professed to be familiar with the appearance of American submarines which have their base at New London, said that she was of a different type from any he had seen. The boat was several miles off shore and was going at a moderate rate of speed. The sea was very choppy.

New London, Conn., September 29.—No submarine had been sighted in the waters adjacent to New London at a late hour tonight. Officials of the Eastern Forwarding company and the T. A. Scott Wrecking company, agent in this country for the German line of undersea merchantmen, claimed they had no knowledge of the early approach of a German submarine.

COTTON FIRE AT AUGUSTA COVERED BY INSURANCE

Augusta, Ga., September 30.—(Special.)—Fire of unknown origin tonight broke out in the plant of the Union Compress company here, but was controlled after being confined to one compartment containing some $37,500 worth of cotton. The extent of the damage was not known tonight, but it was thought much would be salvaged. The loss was said to be fully covered by insurance.

Redwine Case Dismissed.

The case against E. C. Redwine, driver for the Southern Express company, whose machine injured Emma Thomas, the 8-year-old daughter of A. C. Thomas, of 68 Neal street, on August 26, between 5 and 6 o'clock, at the corner of Chestnut and Kennedy streets, was dismissed by Judge Johnson yesterday afternoon in the recorder's court. Witnesses testified that the child, who at the time of the accident was carrying her 19-months-old brother in her arms, was looking at a box of crackers at the time, and that the driver of the truck had done all he could to avoid an accident.

NO MOVING SCENE WHEN TAFT MEETS COL. T. ROOSEVELT

New York, September 29.—No campaign buttons collectively bearing pictures of Theodore Roosevelt, William H. Taft and Charles E. Hughes will be worn by guests at the Union League club reception in honor of the republican presidential candidate next Tuesday evening, it was learned tonight.

Friends of Colonel Roosevelt are reported to have intimated to Chairman Willcox, of the national committee, that undue emphasis has been placed upon the fact that the colonel and Mr. Taft will meet at the reception for the first time in the field of politics since the progressive party was born in 1912, resulting in them being arrayed against each other for the presidency.

The suggestion has been made to the committee arranging the reception that the real purpose of the gathering is to permit republicans to pay their respects to the party's standard-bearer in the present campaign and not to provide occasion for a reconciliation between Colonel Roosevelt and Mr. Taft.

Colonel Roosevelt declared today that "five-sixths of the progressives are for Mr. Hughes," and predicted the election of the republican candidate.

"We all know that, impelled by love of peace and chary of human sacrifices, we made concessions to America and now see with astonishment that the concessions have resulted only in the further supply of the entente with ammunition and guns. We now see how our conciliatory attitude directly has been misused in the American side and Americans can, therefore, reach the enemy and fill important positions.

"We are acquainted naturally with the love of adventure in the American blood and we do not condemn it. We also would have no occasion whatever to pay attention to the exercise of this passion if we had not believed that the concessions to the United States would be sufficient for honorable men to bridle the strongest inclinations to ignore the most natural obligations of neutrality.

"If, however, as the aforementioned facts seem to show, we have erred in this assumption, we must only regret to have made concessions which are misused and which show to us to what degree the feeling and respect of the conception of neutrality have been lost by Americans and by the entente. We still believe it will be possible for the American government to take measures that the concessions made to it shall not undergo usages to which under no circumstances we can submit on the part of American citizens. Such actions can only be regarded as an evasion of our agreement with the union."

American Supplies Continue War.

The Vossiche Zeitung, in an article written by its military critic on the American aviation squadron, points out that the entente allies have an immense advantage in being supplied from "neutral" America with war materials to a degree with which Germany can only compete by her utmost efforts. The newspaper argues that the war would long since have been over if it had not been for American supplies.

It says the longer the war lasts the American attempts to throw a mantle over its so-called neutrality and "the appearance of American aviators in the ranks of our enemies betrays the degree of neutrality which America in the future intends to maintain."

The Tageblatt says: "The American conduct may be regarded as proof of how American feeling and respect for the principles of neutrality are vanishing."

Such stalwart organs as The Tagliische Rundschau, The Tages Zeitung and Diepost all connect the news of the American aviation corps with the submarine issue as the basis for the argument that moderation in the use of Germany's undersea weapons merely serves to further American assistance to the entente allies in men and munitions.

The Tages Zietung devotes a leading article, which does not need the signature to betray its Count von Reventlow origin, to the late Earl Kitchener's alleged statement to W. Cameron Forbes, former governor general of the Philippines, that the entente allies would never be able to conquer Germany without the assistance of the United States. It charcterizes the American policy as a policy in which the United States. It characterizes the American a wooden sword and calls for a policy of the utmost firmness against the United States.

In an article on Aviator Rockwell, The Tages Zietung says:

"It is self-evident that this unneutral favor and support of our enemies cannot be permanently permitted by Germany. America itself cannot doubt that its conduct arouses universal indignation in Germany. We are convinced that the whole German nation is united in believing that just as the American deliveries of munitions laugh to scorn, American assurances of humanity and love of peace, so this support of our enemies by American aviators, constitutes an insult to neutrality."

$400,000,000 IN GOLD FOR THE UNITED STATES

Still to Come From Europe and Canada According to Director of Mint.

Kansas City, Mo., September 29.—The gold imports from Europe and Canada that yet may be expected to come into the United States were placed at $400,000,000 by F. J. H. von Engelken, director of the mint, Washington, who spoke here today at the closing session of the annual convention of the American Bankers' association. He declared these figures had been given to him by financial agencies of the entente allies in this country.

"We are melting up and turning into American money millions of dollars' worth of English sovereigns and French 20-franc pieces," the director declared.

A recommendation for the reduction of the reserves of country banks from 12 to 10 per cent of their capital was passed by the convention. After a spirited debate resolutions were adopted against congressional authorization of branch domestic banks.

The resolution presented by George E. Webb, of San Angelo, Texas, asking congressional inquiry of the live stock industry was withdrawn without action.

P. W. Goebel, of Kansas City, Kan., was elected president, and Oliver J. Sands, of Richmond, Va., was re-elected chairman of the insurance committee.

Frederick E. Farnsworth, of New York, was elected general secretary, and E. M. Wing, of La Crosse, Wis., treasurer.

The convention recommended to the executive committee that the 1917 meeting be held in Atlantic City.

Negro Ancestry Charged, Railway Manager Brings Suit for Criminal Libel

New Orleans, September 29.—Forty-three employees of the municipal public belt railroad were charged with criminal libel in affidavits filed in city criminal court today by Frank H. Joubert, secretary and general manager of the railroad. The charges followed a mandamus suit filed in civil district court here yesterday by five employees of the public belt railroad, seeking to compel the registrar of voters to remove Joubert's name from the rolls of white voters, the petitioners charging Joubert was of colored descent.

The defendants in the suits filed today included four of the employees who entered the mandamus suit and all forty-three were signers of a petition recently presented to Mayor Behrman and the belt commission, requesting Joubert's removal as manager of the railroad, on the allegation that he was of negro ancestry. Joubert late yesterday filed charges of criminal libel against P. Henry Lanauze, city recorder of births, and Thomas Milliken, former employee of the belt railroad, who gave bonds today for their appearance. The petitioners in the mandamus suit yesterday failed to pay costs of the suit. Joubert's attorney presented his client's check covering court costs of the proceedings against him. Joubert said he did this to assure that the case would go to trial and avoid the chance that it might be thrown out by default.

Convict Makes Call Upon Governor Harris To Ask for Clemency

Jack Pollard, life-term convict from Coweta county for the murder of Jack Chappell, called upon Governor Harris in person yesterday to urge the governor to grant him clemency. He called upon the governor at the executive mansion, the governor being indisposed and unable to be at his office. Pollard was accompanied by Warden Sams, of Gwinnett county, where he is serving. The governor has reserved his decision.

Tea-Dance at Druid Hills Golf Club.

The first tea-dance of the fall season will be given this afternoon at Druid Hills Golf club from 5 to 7 o'clock.

Luncheon for Miss Johnson

Mrs. John N. McEachern was hostess at a pretty luncheon yesterday at her home in West End in compliment to Miss Zillah Johnson, whose marriage to Mr. James W. Merritt, of Gainesville, takes place next Tuesday. Paul Neron roses, artistically arranged, formed the centerpiece of the table and the place cards were hand-painted kewpies, dressed as brides. Mrs. McEachern wore green taffetas, combined with Georgette crepe in the same shade, and Miss Johnson's becoming costume was gray Georgette crepe with picture hat of black velvet.

The guests were Miss Johnson, Miss Mary Lucy Turner, Miss Whitelow Betterton of Chattanooga, Tenn., Miss Annie Richards, Miss Jeanie Zachery, Miss Julia Burnett of Sparta, Mrs. Frank Spratlin, Mrs. Harry Johnson, Mrs. Ward Wight, Jr., Mrs. Roy Morrison of Bluefield, W. Va., Mrs. R. H. Dobbs, Mrs. H. T. Dobbs, Mrs. C. D. Hancock, Mrs. C. M. Dobbs of Marietta, Mrs. Luke Johnson, Miss Edith Hall, Mrs. Baldwin and Miss Virginia Frazier.

Children's Party.

Little Miss Margaret Woodside entertained twelve young friends yesterday afternoon at a pretty party at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Gentry, at East Lake, for little Miss Jane Carlton, who, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Carlton, will return to their home in Atlanta today after spending the summer at East Lake. Quantities of autumn flowers decorated the house and Japanese lanterns shading the electric lights added to the gayety of the scene. A large basket of pink and white cosmos was in the center of the table in the dining room, where dainty refreshments were served the children, and for all there were interesting souvenirs.

The little hostess was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. John J. Woodside, Jr. The guests included: Jane Carlton, W. B. Carlton, Jr., Adaline Mott, Billy Mott, Louise Moore, Charles Yates, Scott Hudson, Jr., Rogers Carson Frampton Ellis, Jr., Mary Tupper, Washburn DeMott, Jeanette Derr.

At Driving Club.

The dinner-dance at the Piedmont Driving club will be a bright occasion of this evening. Miss Mamie Ansley and Mr. Lewis Gregg, whose marriage takes place in October, and Miss Ansley's guests, Miss Lil Hodgson, of Athens, and Miss Virginia Jenkins, of Suffolk, Va., will be given a large party. Mr. Brooks Morgan, whose marriage to Miss Mignon McCarty will take place October 4, will be guest of honor in a party at which eighteen of his close friends will be hosts.

Mr. W. B. McBurney, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. Gus T. Dodd will be among others who will entertain at dinner.

Mrs. Nunnally's Luncheon.

Mrs. Winship Nunnally entertained at a pretty luncheon yesterday at her home on Peachtree road for her mother, Mrs. Hugh L. McKee, whose birthday it was. The table had as its centerpiece a silver basket filled with pink roses and blue adjuratum and the place cards were hand-painted in pink roses. Mrs. Nunnally wore blue charmeuse and Mrs. McKee was gowned in gray crepe meteor, trimmed in fur. There were ten guests.

Mrs. Adair's Tea.

Mrs. Robin Adair entertained at a delightful 5 o'clock tea yesterday afternoon at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue, in honor of her sister, Mrs. Robert Walker Groves, of Savannah.

The reception rooms were beautifully decorated with autumn foliage, golden rod and a profusion of other fall flowers.

Punch was served in the sun parlor by Miss Elizabeth Ragland from a table prettily decorated with zinnias. The centerpiece of the tea table in the dining room was a large plateau of pink roses and the candle shades, bonbons and other details of the pretty table reflected the color of the flowers.

Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. T. E. Ragland, Mrs. R. B. Adair and Mrs. W. E. Dobbins.

Mrs. Adair was a charming hostess wearing old rose taffeta trimmed in silver lace. Mrs. Groves' becoming gown was blue Georgette crepe trimmed in brown fur.

Hamilton-Lockhart.

The marriage of Miss Louisa Berrien Hamilton and Mr. Luther Bynum Lockhart will take place this morning at 11 o'clock at St. Luke's Episcopal church.

To Mr. Morgan.

Movies for Education.

The Grand will be open Sunday under the auspices of the scholarship committee of the Southern Mountain Educational association for the education of mountain children. The Fox Film corporation has donated a six-act picture featuring Theda Bara in the "Two Orphans." No people are more in need of help and enlightenment than our own southern highlanders. No admission, but a free-will offering.

Miss Choate Honored.

Miss Nell Watt Choate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Choate, leaves next week to attend the Scoville school in New York, where she will specialize in art, her study to be done under Mr. Dow, of the Teachers' college, Columbia university.

Miss Choate, who has been a student for the past three years at Hollins college in Virginia, has recently received flattering distinction in the offer of a scholarship from the Art club of Richmond, Va., her art work at Hollins, which was submitted by her teacher to the club, having won for her this honor. Her plans for the winter having been completed before the receipt of the Richmond invitation, however, Miss Choate will go to New York.

Y. W. C. A. News.

Mrs. W. S. Witham is planning a booth for the Y. W. C. A. in the woman's department of the Southeastern fair, where information about the Y. W. C. A., both local and national, can be obtained. Pictures will be shown to emphasize the need of a new building in Atlanta and comparisons with other southern cities will be made.

Among the fall activities of the association will be the opening of the gymnasium with its new director, Miss Katisue Moore, from the Chicago School of Physical Training; the Bible lectures, by Dr. Aiken Smart, of Emory university; the Spanish class, under Miss M. A. Moore, and the millinery class under Miss Eulalia Foster.

Curve Balls Never Bother This Catcher

Giant Hippo Scorns Use of Glove or Mask and Never Misses the Wildest Throw.

MISS SAIDIEE WAITING FOR A FAST BALL.

Though Miss Saidee, the seven-ton hippopotamus who does her summer touring in the Ringing Bros., menagerie tent, knows nothing of the big leagues, she never fails to call "play ball." For that means she is to have her supper.

Aside from hay and carrots, Miss Saidee relishes a cereal now and then. This dish is made by mixing fine flake bran with sweetened water. Owing to her unwieldy jaws the giant riverhorse has great difficulty in eating mush from a bowl. So the keeper who looks after Miss Saidee's spacious apartment, rolls the moistened bran into spheres about the size of apples. Then, taking a position several yards distant from his charge, he calls, "Play ball." At this signal the giantess opens her cavernous mouth and the keeper tosses the bran balls inside. The accompanying picture shows the young lady waiting for an in-curve.

In addition to a wonderful main tent program opening with the gorgeous fairyland spectacle, "Cinderella," with its brilliant "ballet of the will-o'-the-wisps," Ringling Bros. are this season exhibiting the most varied menagerie of their career. There are forty-one elephants headed by the giant, "Big Bingo," more different species of the monkey family than have ever been shown before, baby offsprings of lions, tigers, ostriches and bears, an entire family of giraffes and immense aviaries containing hundreds of birds of splendid plumage. The menagerie tent, housing 108 dens, is in itself almost as large as was the Ringling main tent of former seasons, while the main pavilion offers more arenic acts than ever before, as will be seen when the circus comes here, Monday and Tuesday, October 9 and 10, at Jackson and Old Wheat.

FORMER GEORGIA BOY DIES AS THE RESULT OF FOOTBALL INJURY

Waycross, Ga., September 29.—(Special.)—Palmer Bosworth, fourteen-year-old son of Mrs. W. J. Eve, of Tampa., Fla., died at a local hospital today from injuries received in a football game here Thursday.

His skull was fractured when he struck the ground after being tackled, and excepting for a brief moment, when he declared he was all right, he never rallied.

George Fesperman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse M. Fesperman, who was knocked out in the early stage of the game in which Bosworth was fatally hurt, today was found to have a fractured right shoulder.

Mrs. Bosworth was planning to return with her son today to enter him in school.

The funeral service will be held Sunday. The death of the boy came as a great shock to everybody. Prior to his removal to Tampa, a few years ago, he made Waycross his home.

DONALSONVILLE PLANS GREAT FAIR THERE

Bainbridge, Ga., September 29.—(Special.)—For progressiveness and enterprises the promoters of the Southwest Georgia fair, to be held at Donalsonville, in the western part of this county, beginning next Tuesday, October 3, can teach some of the larger cities lessons. This fair, which is being financed entirely by the people in that section, has been held for several years and this year will be enlarged to an extent that no fair in the state, with the exception of those in Macon and Atlanta, will surpass it.

An evidence of their enterprise is seen in their method of advertising. Not content with the usual newspaper and poster advertising, they are going in person over this section of Georgia and into the neighboring counties of Florida and Alabama with a procession of twenty-five decorated automobiles, headed by a motor truck carrying a thirty-piece band, preaching their cause wherever they go. They were here today and their procession caused quite a sensation on the streets. Bainbridge people are greatly interested in this fair and are helping Donalsonville in every way possible to boost it.

HOME-FINDING WORK FOR YEAR PLANNED

Georgia Children's Society Directors Give Luncheon to New President.

H. G. Hastings, recently elected president of the Georgia Children's Home society, to succeed Captain J. W. English, was given a luncheon by the directors of the society and which was attended also by the outgoing president yesterday afternoon at the Piedmont hotel.

Present besides these two were Directors John S. Candler, V. H. Kriegshaber, Paul Reese, Robert H. Jones, Jr., Kendall Weisiger, W. D. Beatie and Albert Henskowitz, and Robert B. McCord, superintendent of the society.

Robert H. Jones, Jr., introduced the new president, who delivered a brief address in which he compared the results attained by an institution such as this society with those of the ordinary orphanages, and he declared that it is his intention to actively engage in the work to which he has been elected immediately his duties in connection with the Southeastern Fair association shall have terminated at the close of the fair next month.

V. H. Kriegshaber was chosen chairman of the legislative committee of the board of directors, and he outlined a plan for materially increasing the scope and enlarging the field of usefulness of the institution.

Superintendent McCord reported that during the five years of its existence the society had placed 536 children in private homes as legal wards, besides caring for several hundred "aid" cases, and that its income has averaged about $1,000 a month during the current year.

$250,000 Lumber Fire.

Vicksburg, Miss., September 29.—Fire in the Anderson-Tully Lumber company's yards, two miles north of here, which started about midnight, destroyed 9,000,000 feet of lumber, estimated to be worth about $250,000, before the fire was gotten under control at 1 p. m. today. Officials of the company said the loss was covered by insurance.

AMUSEMENTS

Al G. Field Minstrels.

(At the Atlanta.)

Tonight the engagement of the famous Al G. Field Minstrels will end at the Atlanta in a burst of glory. The engagement has been the biggest success in the history of the organization, not an empty seat being played, with indications of packed houses this afternoon and tonight. Mr. Field certainly has a pleasing show this season, as is manifested by the praise accorded it by all.

"The Lilac Domino."

(At the Atlanta.)

"The Lilac Domino," the pace-making musical success of the past two seasons, will be presented by Andreas Dippel at the Atlanta Monday and Tuesday, with a Tuesday matinee. This is the great three-act comic opera by Charles Cuvillier, which has set all the large cities agog over its wonderfully sweet music, its great dancing exhibition and costume display and the general breeziness, brightness and wholesomeness of the piece. A fortune has been expended on the scenic and electrical effects and art critics as well as the general public are commenting on the wonderful beauties depicted, especialy in the second and third acts. Twenty brilliant song hits give ample opportunity for the display of talent in the exceptional cast which Mr. Dippel has selected. Seats are now on sale.

"The Girl Without a Chance."

(At the Grand.)

Pleased audiences have witnessed "The Girl Without a Chance" at the Grand this week and demonstrated that melodrama with a punch will always receive patronage. Two performances today will close the engagement, with the matinee starting at 2:30 p. m.

"While the City Sleeps."

(At the Grand Next Week.)

The author of "While the City Sleeps" has for several seasons noted the prevalence of "crook" plays with their dashing, reckless open-handed leading characters, and the idea occurred to him that there was another side to the shield, the story of the men who spend their lives protecting the public from these marauders. And so he has taken the everyday policeman on his beat, the lone man who takes his life in his hand and guards the community from these pests who would take what does not belong to them. Seats are now on sale for the entire engagement.

"Little Cherry Blossom."

(At the Forsyth Next Week.)

Stephen G. Champlin's new Japanese comedy sketch, "Little Cherry Blossom," stars Valerie Bergere as headliner of next week's Keith vaudeville bill at the Forsyth. This beautifully staged little playlet is one of the most signal of the new vaudeville hits. Homer Lind, the noted opera star, in the musical playlet, "The Singing Teacher," in which Adah Currie Lind also takes part, is another feature of the coming program.

This week's offerings include Mlle. Albertina Rasch, the celebrated dancer and her company of "Coryphees Beautiful;" Mlle. Juliette Dika, popular French comedienne; Janet Adair, in a song recital that has won her wide popularity here; James Thompson and company, in a comedy sketch, and others.

Popular Vaudeville.

(At the Piedmont.)

An evenly-balanced program of vaudeville is that at the Piedmont theater today. Among the acts presented should be mentioned Lemont and Wright, who are giving a performance somewhat out of the ordinary. They specialize upon the harmonica, usually called by the small urchin a mouth organ, and finish the turn with a peppery "Cake Walk." Marsh and DeFoggi have a well-dressed and clever act, singing several new songs well. Marsh gives a good imitation of Ralph Herz, which pleases. Ray and Ray, as a newspaper girl reporter and a "Wop" boot black, furnish ten minutes of entertainment, and the illusions of the Prevett-Merrill company close a very good bill. The picture being shown today is Robert Edeson in "The Call of the North."

William S. Hart.

(At the Georgian.)

A tense, gripping and thrilling photoplay is "The Primal Lure," which is at the Georgian theater today with William S. Hart playing the leading role, admirably supported by Margery Wilson and Robert McKim. As an added attraction today there will be shown a rollicking comedy, "Love's Comet." William S. Hart, the star of "The Primal Lure," is receiving more attention from followers of the motion picture than perhaps any other screen player of his sex. He is of English parentage, and while still an infant his parents moved to the far western country, where he was reared on the plains among the Sioux Indians. As an actor in western drama, he is in his element and in the production at the Georgian today makes for the screen one of his best character portrayals.

William S. Hart.

(At the Criterion.)

William S. Hart's latest picture, "The Dawnmaker," has created such a wide appeal that the Criterion management have been led to hold it over through Saturday in order to give all who want to the opportunity of seeing it. In "The Dawnmaker," Hart as Joe Elk, a half-breed, in line to assume the leadership of a tribe of Indians in the vicinity of a far north trading station, is acquainted with the factor who takes an interest in him. Joe dreams of perfecting the civilization of the Indians and receives inspiration from Alice, the daughter of the factor. Joe falls in love with her, but realizes she is beyond his reach. However, he is encouraged by the girl, who is somewhat of a flirt, and later when she announces her intention of marrying Bruce Smithson, and when he is told by Bruce that he should never have allowed himself to love a white girl, he feels it deeply. His tribe moves south after having killed Alice's father because he resisted their attempt to steal his food, but Joe returns and sets out across the snow wastes with Alice and Bruce. The Indian starves that the others may finish the journey.

Field Artillery Ready For Government Orders To Proceed to Border

By Frank Craigie.

Camp Harris, Macon, Ga., September 29.—(Special.)—Although the field artillery battalion is still without the war department's order to proceed to the border, the packing and boxing activities are going merrily on; for the eastern department has notified the camp quartermaster to order the tourist sleepers for the troops, and has further announced that contracts have been let for the issue of fresh beef to the kitchen cars en route.

Arrangements are being made for automobile truck service in moving the heavy guns and caissons to the railroad siding; and indications are that, by the time cars are placed on the camp track, the artillerymen will be ready to go.

Captain William F. Morrison, of the Sixth field artillery, United States army, arrived in camp this morning. He is here in the capacity of inspector-instructor. Captain Morrison's duties have brought him to Camp Harris several times, his first stay having been through the first six weeks of mobilization, as assistant to the senior assistant mustering officer.

The periodical work upon pay rolls has begun; and officers will get onto the midnight oil schedule tonight.

Captain Samuel P. Cronheim, with a detail of officers and men, returned from Atlanta this noon, after having spent several days at the armory in the collection and packing of the regiment's overcoats—which are expected here in a box car, all their own, tonight.

The camp quartermaster issued a call this morning for a fifteen-day ration return for all troops in camp except the field artillery, whose rations have been estimated on a separate basis.

Decatur, Ga., September 29.—(Special.)—The DeKalb One-day Fair association held an important meeting in the new superior courtroom in Decatur tonight, electing officers and definitely choosing the day on which DeKalb's fair will be held, October 25.

Many interesting addresses were made by prominent citizens of DeKalb county and much interest is being manifested in the plan to make the 1916 fair even better than the one held last year. In addition to the attractions and exhibits and contests held last year, a poultry and dog show will be introduced.

The officers elected to take the places of those appointed temporarily at a recent meeting are as follows: C. B. McKinney, president; J. F. Green, first vice president; A. R. Almon, second vice president; W. S. Ansley, third vice president; L. J. Steele, fourth vice president; R. J. Freeman, fifth vice president; W. T. Daniel, secretary; W. C. McLain, treasurer.

Contract Is Awarded For the Approaches To Garrett's Bridge

The contract for the construction of new approaches and abutments to Garrett's bridge over the Chattahoochee river connecting Fulton and Cobb counties was awarded yesterday to Austin Bros., of 156 Greenwood avenue, the price to be paid being $11,890. The work must be begun within ten days from the awarding of the contract and must be completed by December 21.

The bridge is to be entirely rebuilt with the exception of the span between the two pillars crossing the river. There is a good deal of filling-in to be done and the approaches and abutments proper will be made of reinforced concrete.

As the bridge connects Fulton and Cobb, the expense will be shared by the two counties and the contract was advertised in both. Colonel E. E. Pomeroy, county attorney, arranged the details of the contract.

YOUNG WOMEN TO GIVE INFORMATION ON TRAINS

Great improvement in the service at the information bureau of the Atlanta Terminal station is promised as the result of a meeting of the board of control of the Atlanta Terminal company yesterday, at which the establishment of a new plan for informing the public about trains entering and leaving the station was decided upon. Two intelligent young women who will be thoroughly trained for the work and whose cardinal instructions will be "courtesy and accuracy" will be employed immediately, and they will be on duty at the information window in the Terminal from 5 o'clock in the morning until midnight every day. They will answer the telephones when information is asked concerning the arrival or departure of any train, and arrangements have been made for the telephone exchange operator at the Terminal to take the number of any person desiring to secure information when the "information bureau" is busy and to call that person when the line is open.

WHEAT-FLOUR EMBARGO ASKED BY CLUB WOMEN

Chicago, September 29.—Resolutions asking an embargo on wheat and flour were adopted today at a meeting of club women, most of whom defended bakers here for raising the price of bread. The increase, they declared, was justified by war exports, crop shortage and added manufacturing expenses due to improved sanitary conditions.

At the same time officials of the office of United States District Attorney Clyne, who are inquiring whether there was any illegal agreement among the bakers to raise prices, called attention to quotations from European capitals. The fact that bread from American flour is selling cheaper in London, Trieste, Lyons, Havre and other cities than in the United States refutes the assertions that the war demand has justified higher prices.

COTTON PRICES GOOD IN COLUMBUS MARKET

Columbus, Ga., September 29.—(Special.)—At Columbus, a typical interior cotton market, cotton is bringing fancy prices this week and is selling right along. Both the local mills and exporters are bidding for it.

A year ago there was a big stock in local warehouses, but the stock is slow in growing this fall and it is believed that there will be no heavy accumulation of unsold cotton here at any time this fall.

The sale of one lot of 1,000 bales of cotton in the local market a day or two ago is reported. The cotton graded as strict middling and sold at 15¾ cents.

Contract Is Let.

Marietta, Ga., September 29.—(Special.)—It is thought that the members of the Marietta Golf club will be able to celebrate Christmas and the New Year holidays in their palatial new clubhouse, for which contract was let yesterday. J. H. Passmore, of Atlanta, was the successful bidder, and, according to the contract, the building is to be finished by Christmas. The building itself will cost in the neighborhood of $5,000, and the clubhouse and grounds will represent an expenditure of about $15,000. After the completion of the work, Marietta will have one of the most up-to-date courses and clubhouses in the state. The clubhouse building will be erected on the old Smith home place, the site alone being of historical importance and commanding a beautiful view.

When the Macon Guards was formed from the Floyd Rifles and the Macon Volunteers for service in the Mexican war, Campbell was taken along by his owner as drummer boy. Later he served in the same capacity for the Floyd Rifles during the civil war and since that time he has been drummer for the Macon Volunteers. He was one of the best known negro characters in the city. A detachment from the Macon Volunteers attended his funeral this afternoon and paid him military honors.

Man Attempts Suicide When Imaginary Mob Storms Columbus Jail

Columbus, Ga., September 29.—(Special.)—Miles Bass, a white man said to have been suffering under a delusion that a mob was after him with the avowed purpose of hanging him, and who applied to Jailer Layfield for protection, was today released from the jail here after a detention of several days.

It is reported that while in the jail Bass unsuccessfully attempted suicide, declaring that the mob was still after him and that because of his friendship for the jailor he wanted to save him the humility of being overcome by the mob.

BAINBRIDGE BUILDS $50,000 HOSPITAL

Bainbridge, Ga., September 29.—(Special.)—Bainbridge will soon have one of the most modern hospitals in the state and the prospects are that there will be another one built following the one under construction, giving this city two of the best institutions of this kind anywhere.

Actual work of construction has started on the Chason hospital, which will be situated on a high bluff overlooking the waters of the Flint river, and surrounded by a beautiful grove of oaks. Drs. J. D. Chason and Gordon Chason are the men back of the institution, and the Richardson Engineering and Construction company, of this city, has the work in charge. The hospital will cost $50,000.

Dr. A. E. B. Alford, of the Bainbrdige hospital, will probably erect a new structure of the most modern and capacious type at an early date. It is generally known that plans are already complete for erecting the building on Evans and West streets.

WASHINGTON COTTON SELLS FOR 16 CENTS

Washington, Ga., September 29.—(Special.)—Cotton sold on the streets of Washington at 16 cents Thursday afternoon, the first time that middling cotton has reached this figure during the present season.

The cotton seed market has been very active, with the price ranging around 76 cents per bushel. These prices have tended to bring the new crop to market as rapidly as it is possible for the farmers to get it here, and has resulted in the boosting of local bank deposits to an unprecedented figure.

The published statements this week of the two national and four state banks of Wilkes county show an increase of approximately 100 per cent in deposits over the same period of last year, and they are still climbing. The total deposits held by the banks of Washington at present will exceed three-quarters of a million dollars.

"CITIZEN DORSEY."

Under Georgia's peculiar system a governor is nominated nine months in advance of his entrance upon the executive duties. He is elected some eight months before he goes into office. The situation is one which offers its embarrassments both to the governor then serving and the nominee or governor-elect.

It has been a custom to invite the nominee or governor-elect to attend public functions, in a quasi-official capacity—but Hugh Dorsey, recently nominated, has established a new and altogether a correct precedent, in his statement indicating the error of this custom. The nominee, the governor-elect, is no more than any other private citizen; his distinction rests in the fact not that he is, but that he is to be.

Considered in this light, Mr. Dorsey's decision not to participate in public functions of any nature pending his inauguration is in exceeding good taste, and will undoubtedly be commended.

Certainly it does not seem that it would be in good taste for Private Citizen Dorsey to appear at public affairs in a quasi-official capacity. It smacks of injustice to the presiding governor who, as Mr. Dorsey says, is the official representative of the state in all public matters throughout the term for which he is elected.

This conclusion is a splendid display of good taste on Mr. Dorsey's part, and his exhibition of becoming modesty will be generally approved.

HOME GROWN VS. FOREIGN.

W. L. Williamson, of Commerce, comments today upon a recent editorial in The Constitution, expressing surprise that where Georgia consumers are paying 40 cents a peck for New Zealand spinach grown in Ohio, home farmers do not give more attention to this and other easily raised vegetable and fruit products.

In many respects Mr. Williamson is undoubtedly correct in his assumption as to the difficulties confronting the Georgia grower in connection with shipment and marketing of his products.

But in so far as the question of the Georgia consumer's preference is concerned we are inclined to agree with Mr. H. G. Hastings, who comments upon Mr. Williamson's statement, that the presumption that Georgians prefer to pay a higher price for foreign or out-of-the-state products, is incorrect. As a matter of fact, we believe Georgians prefer home-grown products. Take the watermelon, the peach and other fruits which have been produced in this state to perfection, and Georgians ask before they buy whether they are Georgia grown. Atlanta grocers advertise many fruits, vegetables and meats as home-grown products, solely for the purpose of appealing to the Georgia trade.

On the other hand, Mr. Williamson is undoubtedly correct in his statement as to many of the difficulties Georgia producers of fruits and vegetables have with the transportation companies and commission merchants, but there is a remedy for this.

That remedy has already been found by the Georgia peach-growers. Several years ago, when prices were low and there was much talk of destroying orchards in order to plant them in cotton and corn, The Constitution took up the matter of organization, and out of it grew the Georgia Fruit Exchange, an association of the peach-growers of the state, which has accomplished wonderful results for that industry.

The vegetable producers and growers of other fruits, which thrive abundantly within this state, can do the same thing. As a matter of fact, as Mr. Hastings points out in his statement, individual truck growers, who take conditions as they find them, work out their problem year after year and make usually a good income.

If individuals can do this the entire trucking industry, organized as are the peach-growers, can accomplish much more.

Why not a Georgia Truck Growers' association, to deal not alone with home consumption, but to handle their products wherever it goes throughout the United States?

This would not only overcome the difficulties under which Mr. Williamson says the truck growers labor in the matter of transportation and commission charges, but would enable them to place before the home consumer the best of their products at prices which would give them a reasonable return.

Undoubtedly it can be done if the truck-growers of Georgia, or those engaged in any other similar producing industry, will get together and do it.

KEEP THE PEACE!

Suggestion contained in resolutions adopted by the Atlanta Retail Merchants' association, and addressed to the police department and others in authority, urging the maintenance of peace and good order regardless of what turn the street railway dispute may take, will commend itself to every law-abiding citizen of Atlanta.

The resolutions are based upon current reports as to a possible strike on the part of the street railway employees of Atlanta, growing out of alleged differences between them and the corporation.

Atlanta must, of course, deprecate any such differences which may give rise to actual trouble, regardless of where responsibility may rest; not only from the selfish standpoint of a desire for the maintenance of service upon which citizens depend, but upon the broader ground of the great productive loss involved in the cessation of that service.

Perhaps the retail merchants did not mean to say they were not interested in such a dispute, for they are, to the same extent that every other citizen is interested; what they did mean is that it is the business of others, and not an affair for them or other outsiders to meddle in.

But when it comes to suggestion of disorder or violence, then not only the retail merchants but every other good citizen of Atlanta is directly interested, and it becomes peculiarly their business from a standpoint of civic peace.

THE SYSTEM AT FAULT.

The Constitution publishes today a statement of Chief of Construction H. N. Hurt, with reference to the much discussed matter of Atlanta's street paving.

It has been our purpose to make it clear that we are attacking and deprecating no individual, but only conditions growing out of a system which has prevailed for perhaps a generation, and which has cost Atlanta hundreds of thousands of dollars.

In so far as the street paving contracts dealt with under his administration have been concerned, Mr. Hurt has done his full duty. He has been unquestionably beset by many annoyances and difficulties, as may be gathered from his published statement, and he has no doubt done the best he could in giving to the city the very best in his power.

The truth is, Mr. Hurt has achieved wonderful results, considering the handicaps with which he has been beset.

Mr. Hurt says he is not willing to assume responsibility for any work done in the city by others than his own department. In that he is entirely correct. He cannot, of course, be expected to do so. When it comes to the matter of work to be done upon the city streets there should be no divided responsibility. Whatever the chief of construction is called upon or expected to do, he should be responsible for. Likewise, the county where it improves streets within the city limits should bear the full burden of responsibility for the work done under its direction. There should hereafter be no divided responsibility.

Mr. Hurt is right in the main in his contentions; and what he says supports instead of antagonizes the contentions made by The Constitution.

We repeat that our system as to street paving has been all wrong. We are not seeking in any sense to raise a disturbance about what has been done; we are merely pointing to the past in the effort to emphasize the imperative importance of correction in the direction of better work for the future.

If, as a result of this discussion, The Constitution has succeeded in riveting the attention of the public, of council and of the officials of the city upon the need for better and more lasting street work regardless of what has been done in the past, undoubtedly it has rendered the people of Atlanta a far-reaching service.

The impossible has happened! "Britain Apologizes," says a headline. A unique experience for John Bull; and Woodrow Wilson did it!

"You do not have to be a republican to vote for Hughes," declares a partisan contemporary. No, that's true; but you do have to be something just as bad, or worse.

The Italians would have the new version read: "An Austrian army awfully afraid." But fear has been a minus quantity during the war to date.

The Carranza idea is to make a hop, skip and a jump into the banking business.

The germ on the postage stamp is the dangerous one, for no one hesitates to fondle a million on an old dollar bill.

New half dollars will soon be in circulation, but the ancient fear is expressed that there won't be enough to go 'round.

Assyria is now appealing for help. Quite a change since "The Assyrian came down like a wolf on the fold," but even a wolf sometimes gets hungry.

After we pray to be kept out of temptation we lose out because we think that's the whole battle.

If the good Lord was satisfied with the world he made, it stands to reason we ought to be reconciled to it.

And Still They Prosper.

The Free Verse poets seem to welcome criticism—in fact, they thrive on it. This recent comment on their work is from The Indianapolis News:

"Much of this verse reflects not the freedom of the poet's mind but the limitations of his courage. He is moved to speak, and being unable to put his thoughts in words, he makes a few notes and calls them free verse. Of such notes is Ezra Pound's poem 'April' composed:

Three spirits came to me
And drew me apart
To where the olive boughs
Lay stripped upon the ground:
Pale carnage beneath bright mist.

"No one knows what this means or why it should be entitled 'April,' or anything else."

The Gloom-Brother.

Reapin' time or sowin',
An' I jes' can't stop to shout hooray,
For Trouble's got me goin';
An' I'll never ask for my robe an' crown,
For such they'd never hand me;
Ef I got that high I'd tumble down
An' I dunno whar they'd land me!

Though Life may sometimes treat us rough and dim the twilight of the day, these autumn winds are brisk enough to blow our troubles far away! And sure, the light that's in the skies should make a sparkle in Life's eyes, and Morning's music drown your sighs!

Talking of Christmas.

Probably warnings to do your Christmas shopping early suggested this one to the "Starbeams" man of The Kansas City Star:

"A handy man went insane and invented something that nobody could make head nor tail out of, but which all observers declared was of no use whatever. So it was put on exhibition in the best shop in town, and immediately sold for a Christmas present."

Why Home-Grown Products Sell Slowly In Georgia Cities?

Commenting on a recent editorial in The Constitution on "Vegetables and Fruit," W. L. Williamson, a dairyman of Commerce, Ga., blames the city consumers, the express companies and the commission merchants for the fact that Georgia cities do not consume more home-raised products.

The letter was referred to H. G. Hastings, an Atlanta seedsman and a man well posted on the subject in question, for comment and for his opinion on the subject. He replied to Mr. Williamson in a letter of his own to The Constitution, and both communications are here given.

First is that of Mr. Williamson:

MR. WILLIAMSON'S OPINION.

Editor Constitution: I would like to say one word in connection with your editorial on this topic in Monday's Constitution. It looks mighty easy to the editor. All you have to do is to plant New Zealand spinach and get your 40 cents a peck. And the same thing may be said of cantaloupes, peaches, tomatoes, etc. The editor was kind enough to withhold what evidently was in his mind, viz.: that nothing but indifference or laziness can excuse southern farmers for not providing these fruits and vegetables to city consumers for a lower price than they have to pay Ohio growers, 500 miles away.

As you will no doubt admit, there are two sides to this, as well as most other questions. I grant you that there is some justice in your implied charge, but deny that it is wholly or even approximately true. I speak from a limited experience in vegetable growing, and can assure you that there are some good reasons why southern farmers, except in favorable localities, do not grow vegetables for the Atlanta and other city markets.

First of all, the average consumer in Atlanta had rather have New Zealand spinach from Ohio than from Jackson or Rabun county, Georgia, and will pay more for it if it comes from Ohio. Why this is so, I do not know, but true it is. Years ago, about 1890 I believe, I established a dairy and prepared myself to make first-class butter. I learned how to make it, and did make it, but it took me five years to get Atlanta dealers to recognize the fact. They told me time and again that creamery grade butter could not be made in the south, and I was obliged to accept cooking butter prices for as good a product as was ever made in the west. Not only this, The Constitution and other southern newspapers advocated a law that would allow butterine manufacturers to run blind-tiger butterine over legitimate creamery butter, with the result that I became discouraged after about twenty years, and quit.

Fruit Growing in Rabun County.

In late years I have been investigating fruit and vegetable growing in Rabun county. No finer fruits or vegetables can be grown anywhere than in that county, but by the time the express company and the commission man gets through with them there is nothing left for the grower. I venture to say that if the grower of that 40-cent spinach could be located, that he never received 10 cents a peck for it. Last year I shipped several hundred crates of as fine tomatoes from Rabun county as ever grew. They were not only fine-looking, but of the very best flavor, far ahead of any that I ever saw shipped from other sections; yet when the balance was struck I did not have a cent profit. I admit that a part of the loss was because of rascally commission men, but this seems to be a part of the game that cannot be avoided. There are some commission houses that are as straight as a string, but many others that are not. But the small growers of vegetables are dependent on commission men to sell their stuff, as it is not practical to sell personally except for the few that are located near the market.

There is still another difficulty that must be contended with in the uncertainty of the seasons. Vegetables will not thrive without adequate moisture conditions. When everything is right and a good crop of vegetables produced, the whole country is filled with them, and they will not sell for enough to pay express charges.

A Discouraging Experience.

I have had many crates of the finest tomatoes and beans refused by the commission house and left in the express office to be condemned by the food inspector and thrown on the dump, at my expense. Occasionally I have sold vegetables at a very good price, but there have been enough failures to overcome whatever profit there was in the scattered high-price business, leaving me nothing for my own work.

For two months now we have had dry weather, and, so far as I know, there are very few gardens with spinach or any other vegetables growing in them. Ohio has probably had seasonable weather, or possibly her gardeners may irrigate their crops.

The Constitution and other city papers, as well as the average city citizen, mean well when they offer advice to the farmers about the best and most profitable manner of conducting their business. Often this advise is sound, but frequently it is not. Suppose farmers were to undertake to point out the best way to run newspapers, dry goods stores, etc. Would not they be told to attend to their own business, or else to go to town and show you? Personally, I have no objection to the advice of my city friends, but would think more of their judgment and consistency if they would come out in the country and show us.

W. L. WILLIAMSON.

Commerce, Ga.

MR. HASTINGS' COMMENT.

Mr. Hastings' letter commenting upon that of Mr. Williamson follows:

Editor Constitution: In Friend Williamson's communication there is some truth, some half truths and much misunderstanding as to general market conditions and supplies.

As we remember The Constitution's editorial, it was substantially a recital of fact calling attention to the scarcity of Georgia-raised products (vegetable and fruit) in the markets of this city at this season.

In so far as it applies to fruit and vegetables of equal grade or quality, the statement that the Atlantan or Georgian consumer prefers to pay a higher price for a foreign or out-of-the-state product than for a home-grown one is false. It fact, most of the buyers don't know whether tomatoes, at this time of year for instance, are raised in a back lot of Atlanta, a local market garden in the suburbs, the valleys of Habersham or Jackson county, New Jersey or Michigan, and they don't care, so long as they can get the desired quality. There may be a few who yearn and will pay higher for the foreign product, but they are few and far between, and are not worthy of consideration.

Naturally, fruit and vegetables have their local seasons, and the quantity on the market depends to considerable degree on season and rainfall conditions, and when there is a glut, naturally they do not pay. The same is true, in measure, of our great staple cotton, although that, being non-perishable, can be held for better market conditions.

The Result of Observation.

Our business has naturally brought us into close relations with this entire southern truck business, both local and for shipment. It has been our observation that the man who will settle down and follow truck growing as a business, taking the "bumps" along with the good-price times, will make good and have a safe business.

We are satisfied that if Friend Williamson had put the same thought and energy into the vegetable business that he has into making butter that he would have made good. We are very certain that he does not turn his butter over to any and every commission man that comes along.

The fundamental trouble with most folks going into trucking is that they go into the game blindly. They don't study the needs of the market, either as to the kinds of vegetables needed or when prices are best. Most of them start planting in the spring, just about the time all the other truck growers do, and when the gardening fever takes hold of the owner of a back lot and sets him to gardening. Naturally, his product comes to maturity when there is the least demand and largest suppy, and he loses. It's usually the case that in a month or six weeks the market is bare and beans, for instance, that could hardly be given away at 25 cents per gallon are worth $1.50 to $2.00.

The steady, common-sense market gardener for a city market like Atlanta keeps a succession of these crops coming on all the season, and usually the average of prices through the season shows a fair profit on his year's operations.

Louis Magid, of Tallulah Park, told us the other day that he could not supply the demand for tomatoes at $1 per crate, yet there are lots of times during early and mid-summer when tomatoes usually bring not over 50 cents per bushel. Magid times his crop by his plantings so as to come in after the most of the local product from first plantings are off the market. Incidentally, he has a canning factory to use up the product if he has any during low-price periods.

Mistake Made by Truck Growers.

Truck growers generally everywhere are too prone to switch crops from one thing to the other, tempted by a temporary low price or a phenomenally high one. They really become essential gamblers trying always to make what is technically known as "a killing." It happens that the writer has made six trips north since April 1, and each time has had opportunities to watch truck-garden operations around New York, Chicago, Cincinnati, Ceveland, Philadelphia and all through east Pennsylvania and southern New Jersey. Irrigation is practiced only to a very limited extent, and they have had a bad season, very similar to what we have had.

The spinach referred to from Ohio was not shipped to a commission man by the grower, but sold to a local Ohio buyer who has in turn regular customers among Atlanta's market men. The business is systematized, in measure, as to products, and absolutely so as to packing and quality. There is community production of these various vegetable and fruit crops that justifies the business existence of the local buyer and packer.

There are times practically every year when Atlanta and every other southern city shows marked scarcity of all kinds of vegetables. The mountain and high-hill sections of northeast Georgia have climatic and rainfall conditions enabling them usually to put these products into southern markets at times of greatest scarcity and highest prices.

A proper study of the time, the right varieties, the right soil, an honest and standard pack and the selection of reliable agents in the various cities will do away with most of the difficulties that Mr. Williamson stresses; vegetable crops in reasonable quantities will show a fair profit four years out of five, and the city consumer will be far better served than now.

City Demand Is Steady.

The city demand for these products is fairly steady or constant, and he who would supply it must be fairly constant in his shipments during his particular period of production. Sporadic growing and sporadic shipment will get the truck grower nowhere, and we are willing to guarantee that Mr. Williamson did not secure a satisfactory market for his butter until he convinced his customer that not only was the quality right, but that there was a reasonably steady supply to be forthcoming.

Twenty-five years ago Florida shipped possibly half a million dollars' worth of winter vegetables; last year probably fifteen millions. Twenty, fifteen, yes, ten years ago, the Florida papers, agricultural and otherwise, were filled with denunciations of the thieving commission man. One seldom sees such things now, and the reason is that honesty is recognized as the best policy by all parties to the transaction. When the Atlanta commission district was on Broad street we used to see the shipments daily, and the wonder to us was that the shipper got so much for his poorly-assorted and packed stuff rather than so little.

Much of the shipper's troubles are due to himself, and to himself alone, and we feel very sure that if Mr. Williamson could spend one season watching Atlanta or any other city market, both wholesale and retail, he would go back to Commerce with vastly changed ideas and willing to put the greater part of the blame where it properly belongs—on the man who blindly goes at these things without proper study or knowledge of the market he seeks to supply.

When we lived in Florida, and were at the growing and shipping end of the game, we had similar ideas to those of Mr. Williamson, as to vegetable and fruit markets.

Living in Atlanta and seeing the receiving and market end of the game changed our views in short order.

Truck-growing, to be successful, must be looked on and followed as a business, just as Mr. Williamson has followed and made a success of dairying and butter. It has taken study, steady work, system and standardization of product and pack to bring success to him in butter. It has taken all these things to put the peach business on a firm basis. Apple growing in Habersham and Rabun is going through the same process, and the same common-sense effort applied to the vegetable end of the game will produce similar results.

Chief of Construction Hurt Issues a Statement About Work Done by Department

Editor Constitution: I have noted with much interest your editorial of September 19 entitled "Good Money for Bad Work," and subsequent editorials and comments bearing on pavements in the city of Atlanta.

I request the courtesy of, in your columns, making some explanation in connection with these matters in so far as they relate to the construction department of the city.

The matter of the West Peachtree street paving, from Sixth street north to the junction with Peachtree street, seems to have been the origin of these various articles. I wish to explain fully the West Peachtree street project.

During the latter part of 1914 and the early part of 1915, various committees of West Peachtree street property holders and residents appeared before the streets and finance committees of the city council urging upon those bodies the necessity for repaving this street. It had been paved by Fulton county with Macadam, the cheapest type of pavement to be had. The work was free, no assessment against property holders on this street had ever before been made. No attempt at a permanent type of pavement had before been made. When the street was originally paved by the county, traffic was very light and slow on the street, due partly to the fact that a rough Belgian block pavement was on the street from Sixth street south to its junction with Peachtree street at Baker street. The burden of through traffic was carried by Peachtree street. This original pavement was entirely worn out, having lasted longer than could be reasonably expected and having cost the property owners nothing. These numerous bodies of citizens quite properly urged upon the city the necessity for making their thoroughfare passable. It involved approximately 28,000 square yards of pavement. The cost to the city for its part for a permanent type of pavement, such as granite or wood block or bithulithic, if laid, would be approximately $16,000. The street committee had not at its disposal the funds for so extensive a piece of work; the finance committee could not find, or rather did not find, available this amount of money for the city's part of the work. The total cost for a permanent type of pavement would have approximated $80,000. The property holders felt very much discouraged and later went before the county commissioners asking their assistance and the county commissioners agreed to resurface the street, scarifying the old surface and applying approximately three inches of new stone, using a gas tar binder, provided the city and property and the street railway company would pay for the materials used in the work. The committee brought this information back to the street committee and the finance committee. I recall that when this matter was presented, Councilman Reynolds, the representative from the eighth ward on the street committee, objected very strenuously to spending $13,000, $2,600 of which was the cost to the city for a type of pavement which was known to be temporary under the existing traffic conditions. The committee of residents pleaded and begged that the street be made even temporarily passable for a year or two until the city's financial condition was such that a permanent type of pavement could be laid. The city acquiesced to these pleadings, gave the property owners what they almost tearfully sought, made the contracts for delivery of the stone and tar on the street to the county forces. When the county reached this work the material was furnished to them as was agreed by the committee. They took these materials and laid the pavement which now exists.

Only Temporary Pavement.

The West Peachtree street residents forget that the street committee gave them what they asked for, a temporary pavement of the cheapest type of so-called permanent pavement to tide them over until something more permanent could be done. The cost for this work to the city, the property and the street railway company was as follows:

For tar	21c per sq. yd.
For stone	24c per sq. yd.
For incidentals, advertising lighting, re-setting curb, putting in drains, etc.	1c per sq. yd.
Total	46c per sq. yd.

Making a total of 46 cents per yard for materials only, the county carrying out its agreement with these citizens of furnishing all labor and superintendence and doing the work. The cost to the property for this work for materials only, as above stated, is 40 per cent of the above amount. The only connection which the construction department of the city had with this work was in the matter of securing and delivering to the county the materials necessary.

Your editorial is followed by a letter from Mr. R. C. Congdon, general manager of the Atlanta Gas Light company, in which he states that the condition of the street has been exaggerated, but that there was not sufficient binder put in the stone to make a proper surface.

If Mr. Congdon will look over his sales records, he will observe that approximately 70,000 gallons of this tar was delivered to the county for this 28,000 yards of pavement, being 2½ gallons to the square yard, this amount being as much as is required in the standard specifications for this type of pavement in any modern American city. I am pleased to note that in Mr. Congdon's letter, he speaks very favorably of the West Hunter street pavement recently resurfaced with tar binder. This piece of work was done with the forces of the construction department of the city.

It is true that with this or any other type of pavement, it is absolutely necessary, in order to obtain maximum life and result, to make proper provision for constant repair and upkeep, the application of a surface coating is necessary at intervals in order to secure the best results. It should be kept under constant observation and inspection. The city has never seen fit, although often times urged, to provide funds for inspection, repair and maintenance on the street.

Following your editorial is a letter from Mr. T. W. Cone, of Newnan, Ga., under the title "Editorial Was All Right Except Too Mild," in which he states that the streets of Atlanta are very bad and that when he comes to Atlanta by way of Whitehall street, he encounters more jagged pavements, holes and ruts than on any stretch of country road between Newnan and Atlanta.

In this connection, I wish to say that the jagged, rugged pavement over which Mr. Cone is forced to travel, except for a small part which was resurfaced last year, was laid in 1902, nearly 15 years ago, and that it has done all that could be reasonably expected of it except for that portion of the street occupied by the street railway tracks. This street should be entirely repaved with a new wearing surface on the original foundation which is good, and the finance committees have been urged repeatedly to appropriate the necessary money to do this work.

Waste of Time and Money.

I cite herewith from my annual report to the mayor and general council dated December 31, 1915:

"In the matter of asphalt streets, I beg to advise that this year approximately $22,000 was expended for asphalt work. This work, in my opinion, except where with the Lutz method, old asphalt is heated and recoated, is largely a waste of both time and money, as the condition of all our asphalt streets, with the exception of that part on Peachtree street between Pine street and Sixth street, has lived its life and should, instead of being patched, be entirely repaved. I believe it would be economical for the city in the long run, to entirely repave as much of the old worn-out asphalt in the city as can be done with the available funds each year instead of continually patching, where the life of the patch is approximately eight years and that of the surrounding dead and lifeless pavement is liable to disintegrate at any minute."

To come back to "Good Money for Bad Work," you state that the brick pavement on South Pryor street laid a few years ago at a tremendous cost, has gone all to pieces and that it must soon be replaced. I desire to ask what, in your opinion, constitutes a few years and what in your opinion is the life of a brick pavement under traffic conditions similar to that of South Pryor street? This pavement on South Pryor street from Mitchell street to Georgia avenue was laid in March, 1895, nearly 22 years ago. Its present condition, as you state, is bad, and plans are now on foot to repave this street, the county having agreed to assume the city's part of the cost for this work because of the fact that the city has had no funds available. This work was not done under my administration, and I am simply giving you these facts which are a matter of record in my office, to correct an erroneous impression which you have given.

You also state that Peachtree street from Fifteenth street to the city limits, that part about to be repaved with a modern and permanent type of pavement, was laid about three years ago. In this statement you are entirely incorrect. The pavement was originally laid by the county with Macadam. About three years ago the county very kindly resurfaced this street for the city in a manner somewhat similar to the work which they did for the city on West Peachtree street. The county not only did this work but furnished the material for the work. Peachtree street from Sixth street to the city limits has never paid any part of the cost of the original pavement or the work of resurfacing, having been done by Fulton county.

The specifications and contract prepared for the work of repaving that part of Peachtree street from Fifteenth street to the city limits and drawn by myself, are thoroughly modern and up to the minute and entirely in keeping with the best practice for the type of pavement selected. Since you see fit to infer that these specifications do not insure a modern and high-grade pavement, I should be very pleased to have you appoint a committee of engineers experienced in street and roadway paving, to criticise these or any other specifications for work which has been done by the construction department during the years of 1915 and 1916, the time of my administration of this department.

In your editorial you refer to a time several years ago when a contractor started to put down on Boulevard a poor piece of pavement and the property owners there found it out before the work was completed, rose up in arms and succeeded in getting a substantial pavement which is almost as good today as when it was put down. As a matter of fact, I wish to state that the contractor on this work started to put down on North Boulevard a pavement similar to that on West Peachtree street under a petition of the property owners, and at a low cost, it being, as you say, a poor piece of pavement, not from a standpoint of workmanship, but in type; that the people when the first section of this pavement was completed, did object to this type of pavement and requested the city to discontinue the work and pass it up again for a more expensive and more permanent type of pavement, which the city did, with the result that it is in good condition today, except for the area in the street railway tracks paved with brick, which is fastly disintegrating.

Some Good Paving Laid.

As to your statement that the city is confronted by the results of carelessness or inefficiency, I beg to refer you with pride, to a few of the pavements laid during 1915 and 1916 under my supervision:

Bituminous Macadam Streets—

Lucile avenue, Rosalia street, Fourth street, Rockwell street, Candler street, Brookwood drive, Dunlap street, Lee street, Sixteenth street, Durant street, Sixth street, Mansfield street, Elmira street, Albemarle street, Euclid avenue, Randolph street and many others, all of which, though only temporary pavements, are the very best of their type.

I also point with pride to the wood block pavements as laid under modern and improved specifications, on Auburn avenue, Grant street, West Mitchell street, West Peachtree street and Gordon street.

Also the granite block pavement as laid on Alabama street and now being laid on West Peachtree street.

I cannot assume responsibility for the type of pavement laid, because of the fact that under the charter of the city of Atlanta the type of pavement to be laid is usually selected by the property owners on the street where petitions are necessary, as in case of repavement. I cite herewith section 352:

"Material for Paving—How Selected: The material to be used for paving or otherwise improving the streets shall be such as the mayor and general council shall select in each case."

I do assume full responsibility for the specifications and the manner of work for all pavements done by my department during my term of office, and am perfectly willing and will gladly welcome an investigation by any committee of competent and efficient men qualified to act in the capacity of paving experts.

I am not willing to assume responsibility for any work done in the city by others than my own department and the authoritative inspection of my department.

In order to eliminate any over-lapping of authority or failure to place responsibility on work done for the city by Fulton county, as in the matter of West Peachtree street, I beg to again quote from my annual report to the mayor and general council under date of December 31, 1915:

"In the matter of carrying on work jointly by the county and the city, we earnestly urge upon your honorable body the necessity for completely mapping out in detail and the agreement in some form of contract of all work to be done by the county for the city or by the county and city jointly. In this connection, it at the present develops that in carrying out its program with the city in the matter of grading streets through the winter season, the matter of the proposition of drainage was not entered into in detail in the original agreement, and by reason of the fact that it was not taken up in detail, the county, in some instance declines to make provision for drainage, claiming that their contract was for grading only, and the city with its funds exhausted just at this season of the year, is not in position to furnish the necessary drainage. For that reason I urge that some means of agreeing on all projects to be handled between the county and the city be made for all future work which will prevent any delay growing out of a misunderstanding and will expedite and make more efficient the work of both."

It is, and always has been, my opinion, and I have so urged that the policy of the city be, to spend the money set aside for paving, in securing the very best type of permanent pavement at a sacrifice of quantity of work done, for quality. This could be done by making provision for taking care of the outlying unpaved streets, and in this connection I again refer to my annual report for the year 1915:

"Exhibit 'E' sets forth a list of unpaved streets which heretofore have been in very bad and practically impassable condition, which have been greatly improved by the placing of cinders thereon from the crematory by the sanitary department. All of these streets are within the closest available haul to the crematory.

"In this connection I recommend to your honorable body that if the policy of the city next year is so arranged as to allow this department the necessary equipment, such as trucks, road machines, rollers and scrapes, and if a few gangs at a moderately low cost can be provided for the use of this department for the proper upkeep and repair of dirt streets by the use of this equipment and the cinders and waste material from the city's plants and other manufacturing plants scattered over town, we can, at a low cost, place and maintain the dirt streets in such shape that a great burden of temporary paving solicited by the residents of various isolated streets will be delayed, thereby giving the city the advantage of the use of its available funds to repair and put in better condition the main arteries and thoroughfares in and radiating from the central part of the city. It is my intention to request the finance committe of 1916 to make provision for this work along these lines."

You refer in a subsequent editorial entitled "No More Child's Play," to the asphalt pavement on Marietta street from North avenue out, which has become so rough and wavy and full of holes, that it must soon be abandoned.

In the matter of this paving, I wish to state that this work was done by Fulton county for the city without any cost, following the widening of Marietta street some five years ago. My department had no connection with this work, it being laid and donated to the city by Fulton county.

In numbers of cases on residence streets the property does not justify an expensive type of permanent pavement, the property owners not being financially able to pay for it, and had rather have a cheaper type of pavement.

Thanking you in advance for bringing these facts before the public, I wish to remain, yours very truly,

H. N. HURT,
Chief of Construction.

GEORGIANS ARE ASKED TO AID ORPHANS TODAY

Contributions of Proceeds of Day's Work Urged for Home in Decatur.

Every Georgian is to be given an opportunity today to aid a worthy charity by a contribution of the net proceeds from his day's work to the orphans' home at Decatur—this being "work day" for the institution.

Although the home embraces a pecan orchard and a dairy farm, the former just coming into bearing, and the two combined making the institution in a small measure self-sustaining, its upkeep and the yearly expansion of its sphere of usefulness has in former years depended entirely, and now depends to a large extent, upon popular subscriptions. In the past contributions have been liberal, and to the extent that the home has gradually expanded since its foundation forty-eight years ago, when it housed thirty unfortunate little inmates, until now it is caring for 160.

Institution Heads.

J. M. Hawkins is superintendent of the institution, and R. A. Hemphill, T. K. Glenn and W. O. Foote are the trustees.

The plan for "work day" is for every citizen who will to donate to the home the proceeds from his or her day's work today. This idea for raising money was suggested by W. F. Crusselle, circulation manager for The Constitution, and was first put in operation fifteen years ago, and since then it has been an annual event. Also it has annually proven satisfactorily remunerative.

For many years it has been the aim of this home to secure for the little ones homes in good families—homes that mean everything. In this they have been very successful, as hundreds thus saved and made happy will now testify.

During their temporary stay at the home they are trained in school, home and farm upon such practical lines as to cultivate the spirit of independence in young hearts. The work of the home has been so practical that the per capita is less than any other home in the southern states where salaries have to be paid. This is made possible because the children do so much toward their own support.

Cottage Dedicated.

On March 27, 1899, the baby cottage, one of the many buildings at the home, was dedicated, and Wallace P. Reed, formerly of The Constitution staff, closed his account of the event by saying:

"It is gratifying to find that so many people take an interest in this Christian enterprise. It is a good work to rescue these homeless and friendless orphans, and give them a start in the world. Many of them in the past thrity years have won their way to high plains in the social, professional and business world, and rank among the noblest men and women in Georgia.

"I do not wonder that President Hemphill and his associates and co-workers are devoted to the Home and its objects. Such work sweetens the lives of busy men and keeps them in touch with all that is good, unselfish and lovable in humanity.

"Among all the orphans I saw only bright, cheerful faces. They are a fine-looking crowd of children—not a dull or surly face among them. But how would they look and what would be their fate if they had been left in their poverty and misery with no helping hand to save them?"

Meador Given Contract Paving Peachtree From 15th St. to City Limits

The street committee of council yesterday opened bids for the paving of Peachtree street from Fifteenth street to the city limits and the contract for the work was awarded to T. D. Meador, Jr., his being the lowest bid received. The committee considered five bids for the work. This contract was let some time ago to a firm in Chattanooga, and the firm afterward forfeited its check and withdrew the bid. Friday was the second time bids for the work have been considered.

VERDICT OF $22,500 AWARDED TO ENGINEER

Charles Warren, formerly an engineer on the L. and N. railroad, secured a verdict yesterday in Judge H. M. Reid's division of the city court for $22,500 against the road for personal injuries. It was one of the largest damage verdicts in the history of the court. Warren sued for $50,000, claiming that his injuries were due to a defective step which broke when he stepped on it, throwing him violently to the ground. The plaintiff was represented by Atkinson & Born, of Atlanta, and Gibson & Davis, of Birmingham. Tye, Peeples & Tye, attorneys for the railroad, announced that an appeal would be taken.

NEW POSTAL RULING WILL HELP BANKERS

Notification has been received by Postmaster Bolling H. Jones that by a new ruling of the postoffice department the weight limit upon all first-class mail matter has been increased to that of parcel post matter, applying strictly to domestic mail.

This makes it possible, therefore, to send fifty pounds of first-class matter through the mails within the first and second zones, and twenty pounds to points in all other zones, whereas under the old order first-class matter was limited to packages not exceeding four pounds in weight.

Bankers, trust companies and similar institutions will be the chief beneficiaries of the new rule, their benefit coming through the fact that it will greatly facilitate the transportation of specie, bonds, mortgages and other parcels of documentary matter and which usually is shipped by mail.

WILL ASK FOR BIDS FOR PAVING TENTH AND VIRGINIA AVE.

There will be a called session of the county commissioners today to ask for bids for the immediate paving of Tenth street and Virginia avenue. It is estimated that the job will cost between $30,000 and $35,000. Chairman Tom Winn explains that it will be necessary to let out the work by contract on account of the shortage of county convicts.

The character of the paving will be determined at the Saturday meeting. Indications were that it would be of a mixed asphaltic method. This paving has been on the county program for a number of years, but it has not been reached owing to the pressure of other work.

ROSSES ARE ACQUITTED OF CHARGES OF THEFT

J. T. Ross and his son, Leonard Ross, whose arrests grew out of police investigations into the murder of John Wurm, the boy timekeeper at the Atlantic Steel company's plant, were acquitted yesterday in the city criminal court on a charge of stealing copper wire from the plant. The murder mystery was referred to incidentally in the trial. Ross and his son were represented by Attorneys William M. Smith and John S. Highsmith.

CONTRACT IS AWARDED FOR WALTON ST. WORK

Jamieson & Hollowell were yesterday given the contract for paving Walton street. Bids were opened by the street committee for the work. Several firms placed bids with the committee. The work will be paid for by the county.

"FIRE PREVENTION DAY" IN GEORGIA NOW URGED

State Fire Marshal W. R. Joyner has requested Governor Harris to issue a proclamation calling for a state "fire prevention day," when, in the schools, public addresses, in the newspapers and otherwise, methods of preventing fires shall be taught to the general public with a view to reducing the annual losses in the state. This is a plan that has been pursued with success by other states. Governor Harris, who is now indisposed at the executive mansion, has taken no action upon the request yet.

AL G. FIELD TO VISIT GATE CITY GUN CLUB

Charles W. Tway, president of the Gate City Gun club, will entertain Al G. Field, the noted minstrel, at the club this afternoon. Mr. Field and Mr. Tway were born on the same day and in the same town, Columbus, Ohio, and were boyhood friends together for many years. Mr. Field will have an opportunity to inspect the marksmanship of the members of the gun club on their regular Saturday afternoon shoot and also to take a shot or so himself.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS FROM TENTH DISTRICT

The following communication has been received by The Consxitution from Hiram L. Gardner, of Eatonton, newly elected secretary of the state democratic executive committee:

"I have just noticed that I gave you newspaper boys the wrong list of members of the state democratic executive committee from the tenth district. Same should have been: Thomas Baldwin, Glascock; A. C. Evans, Warren; Alvin Golucke, Taliaferro, and Durham Watson, McDuffie."

RECOVER THE WATCH OF CULPEPPER EXUM

A two hundred-dollar Swiss watch, belonging to Culpepper Exum, ex-mayor of Birmingham, which was stolen last February, was recovered Friday by Detective John Starnes and returned to its owner. The watch is said to have been brought to Atlanta by A. P. Chandler, now serving a twenty-year sentence for burglary. It was traced through Atlanta pawn shops and finally located. It is said that the watch had been pawned for $8.

CHARGES OF FRAUD TO BE HEARD TODAY

Macon, Ga., September 29.—(Special.) Charges of fraud in connection with the recent election for civil service commissioner, made by J. E. O'Quinn, former clerk of the municipal court and one of the defeated candidates, will be heard by Judge Mathews in the superior court tomorrow, when the injunction restraining the mayor from swearing in W. B. Chapman, the successful candidate, will be taken up. O'Quinn charges that ballots in the fourth ward were changed and he promises to furnish some rather sensational testimony.

The contest over the election will be heard next Wednesday before Ordinary C. M. Wiley, O'Quinn having also petitioned to have the election set aside and a new one held.

O'Quinn, who had the backing of the Guardians of Liberty, ran third in the election.

DECATUR LYNCHING REGRETTED BY PEOPLE

Bainbridge, Ga., September 29.—(Special.)—While Decatur county and Bainbridge regret the lynching that occurred here this week, they are consoled in the fact that the usual display of rioting and disorder accompanying such affairs was conspicuously absent at this time. The mob seemed to be content with exterminating the negro, and after this was done they went to their homes without the public-at-large knowing anything about it.

Sheriff Martin put up a stout defense of his prisoner, but the numbers against him were too great and he was soon overpowered.

MACON MAY BUILD CITY LIGHTING PLANT

Macon, Ga., September 29.—(Special.) Alderman Fred Williams, E. A. Adamson, W. C. Miller and R. S. Thorpe and City Engineer Humphreys returned this morning from Jacksonville, where they went to inspect the municipally-owned lighting plant in that city with a view to gathering data to lay before the Macon council, which is now considering building a municipal plant in this city. The committee was well pleased with what they saw, and Chairman Williams says some interesting facts weer obtained.

The present lighting contract with the Macon Railway and Light company will expire in the next two years, and it is understood that the company is preparing to increase the rate considerably.

Attend Rate Hearing.

Columbus, Ga., September 29.—(Special.)—J. D. Massey, vice president of the Eagle & Phenix mills, and G. Gunby Jordan, a director and formerly president of that company, appeared before the interstate commerce commission in Washington yesterday in a rate hearing of much importance to southern textile plants. Railroads of the north and west propose to increase freight rates from the south on cotton factory products to various central western cities, and this proposed increase is being vigorously combatted by southern cotton manufacturers.

CHEVROLET AGENTS DEPART FOR HOMES DRIVING NEW CARS

About one hundred dealers of the Chevrolet Motor company from Georgia, North and South Carolina, Florida, Alabama and Tennessee left Atlanta yesterday as participants in "Drive Away Day."

The dealers came to the city by train and went to their homes driving the newest models put out by the factory. The cars were seen on the street all day Friday and caused a great deal of comment. They left displaying big banners.

Just before leaving the dealers were given a luncheon at the Ansley hotel by the local agents. J. H. Simms, general manager of the motor works in Atlanta; W. H. Brennan of the Atlanta office; F. H. Miller of the Autolite company, who supply the lighting system for the car, and F. J. DeMont of the Willard Storage Battery company made interesting talks.

ATLANTA RED MEN PLAN FOR "JEFFRIES NIGHT"

The Red Men's hall on Central avenue was crowded Tuesday night with delegations from every tribe in the city and many surrounding tribes, the meeting being called to arrange for a "Jeffries night," to celebrate the election of T. H. Jeffries to the leadership of the national order.

Canton, Newnan, Griffin, East Atlanta, Buckhead and all surrounding territory sent enthusiastic delegations.

Judge Jeffries was absent from the city and could not attend, but Arthur Marbut represented him, and delivered an eloquent address.

Fred Patterson, chairman of the committee on arrangements, announced that on the night of October 31 the Red Men would assemble on Forsyth street at the corner of Peachtree and, headed by the Red Men's drum corps, march down Peachtree and Whitehall, and thence to the hall on Central avenue. Decorations, red lights and the usual accompaniments of the Red Men's guide will be on hand.

Oscar Mims, chairman of the Red Men's league, reported that prices for the uniforms for the league had been secured, but so far were not satisfactory, and new bids would be asked for. The Red Men contemplate a league of one hundred men in Atlanta, and the uniforms will be that of the old colonial.

Two hundred and seventy-five pale faces were promised for the night of October 31.

Great Senior Sagamore Barrett was present, and delivered a stirring address on Redmanship. Past Grand Sachem Frank F. Smith led off the exercises with a very enthusiastic address.

OVERTON WAS WOUNDED IN AN EFFORT TO ESCAPE

Montgomery, Ala., September 29.—D. D. Overton, former clerk of the Madison county circuit court, charged with the murder of Probate Judge Lawler last June, at noon today arrived in Montgomery in charge of Sheriff Puckett, of Smith county, Tennessee, who captured him, and Chief of Police Dyas, of Huntsville. There is a wound on the top of Overton's head, which, Sheriff Puckett says, was caused by a bullet he fired at Overton when he attempted to escape from him after walking three miles through the woods in Tennessee. Overton's face and hands also are scratched, occasioned when he fell through underbrush after being hit by the bullet.

Overton declined to make any statement at present, but says he will have one to give out, probably when he goes over the case with his attorneys. He was well provided with money when he reached the Montgomery jail and expressed appreciation to the Tennessee officer for courtesies shown him. When Chief of Police Dyas was leaving and told Overton goodby, he asked if the prisoner had any message he desired carried back to Huntsville. Overton told the chief he did and started to say something, when he changed his mind and said: "Not at present."

Sheriff Puckett denies a traveling man tipped Overton off to him, and says he had no difficulty in capturing and arresting the long-wanted man. After placing him under arrest and walking three miles through the woods to an awaiting automobile, without demurring, Overton made a dash for liberty when the car was reached, and jumped into a gulley, hoping to escape in the darkness. Sheriff Puckett fired at him in the semi-darkness, the bullet cutting through the scalp and stunning Overton. The sheriff says he started to shoot the second time as Overton lay on the ground, but decided not to do so.

Overton will be held here until November, when he will be taken to Huntsville to stand trial under indictment already returned against him, charging murder.

$600 TAXICAB BILL GETS ALABAMA MAN INTO TOILS OF LAW

Charged with running up a cab bill of $600 in three weeks with the Spider Taxi company after representing himself to be a wealthy coal operator of Montgomery, Ala., H. R. Conklin, who is stopping with his wife at the Georgian Terrace hotel, was bound over yesterday by Judge Luther Z. Rosser, Jr., in the municipal court in the sum of $100 on a charge of cheating and swindling. Conklin is alleged to have given a draft to cover the account, which was turned down on presentation to the drawee.

Construction Chief To Make Inspection Of Slick Sidewalks

Chief of Construction Nym Hurt was authorized by the street committee yesterday to make an inspection of all slick sidewalks, those having a hard-finished tile and carrying advertising in the walks, in the inner fire limits. He was given permission to have such pavements that he considered dangerous taken up.

An ordinance preventing the laying of so-called slick walks has been on the books of the city for some time but has not been enforced.

Councilman Ed Inman appeared and complained of the condition of the walks. He told the committee that he had slipped on one of the walks a short time ago and taken a tumble.

The city has received several claims for damages alleged to have been suffered by pedestrians on the slick walks.

The Allies' New War Monster

The "famous cheese-box on a raft" that revolutionized naval warfare may have its land counterpart, editorial observers are noting, in the new British traveling forts, or land monitors, nicknamed "tanks" and "Willies" by the "Tommies."

In THE LITERARY DIGEST for September 30th the leading article gives a clear description of these new "super-dreadnoughts" of the land, illustrated, including a map showing where the "tanks" first went into action causing, according to General Haig, "indescribable demoralization in the enemies' ranks."

DOPING THE WORLD'S SERIES
THE SHORTSTOPS

THE SHORTSTOPS IN FIGURES.

Philadelphia	.327	.359	.686
Brooklyn	.355	.322	.677

By Hugh S. Fullerton.

This is the doggondest funniest dope I ever encountered.

When you find a shortstop who is of nearly as much value to his team as a defensive player as he is on the offensive, you think you have a weak man. This stands to reason, because, as we have seen, the offensive part of baseball is 62 per cent of the game and the defensive is only 38 per cent. Besides that, the shortstop, or any one man, is only one factor of the defensive strength of a team.

Yet here are three shortstops studied carefully and seriously with a view of getting at their worth as individuals in the coming series; studied as against the kind of pitching they will have to face, and not one of the three is worth much more to his team as a batter than as a fielder. It is uncanny. The three all figure as pretty fair hitters and run-getters in their own leagues—not great, of course, but strong enough to count on them winning a game once in a while. Olson is the leading slugger of the three, and he is pounding the pellet for about .280, while his rivals are down there fighting to keep above the .209 mark. In the batting averages, both Scott and Bancroft associate regularly with the pitchers, and Scott looks like an amateur batter compared with the hitting of his own pitchers.

Scott and Bancroft are the two greatest fielding shortstops in the world, barring Maranville, who, this season, is the most improved ball player I ever have seen. Olson, of course, is not their equal in the defensive end of the game, although their superior in attack.

In an average season against all pitchers as they come, these men, with the exception of Olson, look pretty weak. But stack them up against world's series twirling, pit them against the best team of the opposing league and they do not figure to do much except to take their swings and to indulge in some hoping.

Olson is the only possible one of the three who appears to have a chance of turning himself into a hero, yet, of the three, I would pick Bancroft as the most dangerous man in a pinch. He cannot hit much, but he is the kind of a poor hitter who is just about as likely to bat Walter Johnson as he would be to hit a dub. He swings and hits at the ball and, if it is aimed at his bat, he busts it. Scott is a very weak sister with the war club, when considered from a world's series angle. It is a cinch he has been pulling for Brooklyn to win the National league pennant because he will stand much more show of making base hits against their pitchers than he would against either the Philadelphia or Boston Braves boxmen.

In fact, victory for Brooklyn ought to have been the desire of all fans, because Brooklyn is a hitting, erratic and uncertain team, with in and out pitching, and one is sure of action when that kind of a club faces even a much stronger one. A team may wallop the life out of the Dodgers, but the action will be there, and that makes for exciting baseball—a thing much too scarce in the world's series of these modern days.

Olson an Improved Player.

Olson is a player who has improved a great deal since he got with the Brooklyn outfit. He is not brilliant, but he is a hard worker and a willing and enthusiastic one this year, which will be quite a surprise to the Cleveland crowd, which considered him a bone and not much of an enthusiast. The scent of victory seems to have spurred him along to greater efforts.

He does not figure to do much slugging against the Red Sox pitchers, but he is more fortunate than some National league shortstops would be, in that he figures fairly well against the left-handers. Scott, of course, looks better against Brooklyn than against the Phils.

Of the three, Bancroft is much the better in defensive work. In fact, this fellow is one of the really great shortstops of all time as a defensive man. He has improved this season even over his work of last year, when he was the sensation of the National league. He is steadier, shows more brains and works better with the men alongside him. Especially has he helped the rather weak partner to his left.

His work at short is the nearest approach to that of Mike Doolan in his palmiest days that Philadelphia has ever seen. I would, of course, rate Walter Maranville above him as a ball player, because of his fighting, aggressive brilliancy, but there is none other in the Rabbit's class.

Scott is a fast, brilliant and nervy ball player, who holds a job on a championship team because of his fielding and defensive work on the infield. He is a tremendous help to Barry and works with him as did Eddie Collins. He does not work so well the other way, save in going back of third, and, in that direction, he covers an immense amount of ground. I have criticised him some in the past for failure to come in for the slow, high bounders, but then he plays deep and relies upon Gardner to cut across, and when Gardner does his part, that omission is not observed.

Olson is the worst fielder of the three, but not a bad one. I fear that he will not look as well against the Red Sox as he does in his regular season's work, because the Red Sox are almost certain to hit the ball fiercely during the coming series, and, whether they hit it safe or not, they make infielders hustle to cut off their drives, or cripple them with their hot smashes. It is to be observed that many infielders are made to look like stars when the pitching is good, who appear to be dubs when the other team is lighting upon the ball.

In a world's series, when pitching is good, the value of defensive work rises in inverse ratio to the lightness of the hitting; so, do not be surprised if the figures show a player far below what we would rate him in a regular season and perhaps considerably above what we would rate him as a defensive player. In one of these close, light-hitting games a great stop may be of as much value as a long hit.

Tomorrow we will dope the third basemen, finishing up the job of figuring the regulars of the teams. After that we will get down to the brass tacks—for, remember that in a world's series catching and pitching count more even than they do in a regular season.

HOW YALE AND PENN. SHOW WILL INTEREST

New York, September 29.—A number of new varsity elevens will swing into action tomorrow, the second Saturday of the eastern gridiron season of 1916. Among the more important teams to engage in their initial contests are Princeton, Yale, Army, Navy, Colgate, University of Pennsylvania, Syracuse and Brown. None of thees elevens is called upon to face formidable opponents and a majority are to play teams which did not appear in the 1915 list of games.

Principal interest will attach to the showing made by the Pennsylvania, Yale and Princeton combinations in their opening games, as two of these three elevens will appear under the direction of new coaches.

The Eli players will have their first opportunity to show what progress has been made under the direction of Tad Jones, and the same is true of Pennsylvania, under Bob Folwell. "Speedy" Rush is no longer a novelty at Princeton, but the manner in which the Tiger coach brought along the Nassau team last season apparently makes the Tigers formidable to opponents this fall.

For the first time in many years Princeton will open her season away from home, playing Holy Cross at Worcester. The eleven should give Princeton strong opposition. Yale will face the Carnegie institute team and the Pittsburg players are expected to offer resistance enough to demonstrate what progress Yale has made under Coach Jones.

The University of Pennsylvania will have West Virginia as an opponent. Last season Pennsylvania was forced to play top speed football in order to defeat West Virginia 7 to 0.

Both the Army and Navy elevens also will make their debut, meeting Lebanon Valley and Dickinson college combinations respectively. Neither institution was played last year.

YELLOW JACKETS TACKLE BAPTISTS

First Local Game of the Season at Grant Field Today. Game Starts at 3 O'Clock. Admission $1.

By Hal Reynolds.

The opening game locally of the 1916 football season will be played this afternoon at Grant field, when the Mercer Baptists tackle the Tech Yellow Jackets at 3 o'clock.

This will be Tech's first game of the season, as against the second contest of the Baptists, who last Saturday defeated the strong Georgia Military college team, prep champaions last year, by the score of 7 to 0.

Practically all of the Jackets are in good shape and anxious to test their wares against an opponent instead of the daily scrimmages with the scrubs. Morrison will hardly get into the game, as he is laid up with both a severe cold and a weak ankle.

The line-up that will start off the game for Tech will be composed of last year's letter men and scrubs, some of whom show much promise of making their letters ere the season closes. Phillips, last year's center, has been playing end during the past few days and will work out at the place this afternoon. Preas, who has played mostly a guard position for the past three years, has also been moved over to an end. At the center position there will be Lebey, a scrub last season, and West, who was on the varsity squad a year ago.

Most of the new men will doubtless be given a chance to show what they can do in a real game. It is likely that Coach Heisman will use as many as three teams against the Baptists.

With the new fence now completed, Grant field has an inclosed area of one square block. Stands have been built along the North avenue embankment and these, with the concrete seats, insure the spectators of all the necessary seats when the big games come.

The officials for the game have not been definitely decided upon, but inasmuch as Mercer wired yesterday to Tech authorities that any officials would suit them, local officials will handle the game. The officials will probably come from three men connected with Georgia Military academy—Lieutenant Ellis, Summers and Hayes.

LOUISVILLE CINCHES THE A. A. PENNANT

Louisville, Ky., September 29.—Louisville won from Toledo today and clinched the American association pennant. If the team loses the three remaining scheduled games of the season, all with Toledo, it still would have a lead over Indianapolis, the nearest contender.

Louisville to date has won 100 games and lost 64.

GEORGIA TO OPEN AGAINST CITADEL

Red and Black in Fair Shape for Opening Game of 1916 Season — To Use Several Teams in Game.

Athens, Ga., September 29.—(Special.) Captain Thrash, of the Red and Black football team, will put his aggregation up against the Citadel Saturday in the first game of the year on Sanford field.

Several scrimmages have been on this week's practice work and the reserves, under Assistant Coach Paddock, have shown up a strength and machine-like understanding of the game which augurs well for the second line of defense for the record this fall.

Neville, for the varsity, has begun some of his old-time work, smashing the lines, and Dezendorf and Reynolds ran to advantage. Donnelly, one of this week's recruits, an extra man, has not had a fair chance to show his punting ability, nor more than ordinary ability at end running. Bright McConnell, another who reported this week, despite the fear of a leg that was broken last year, is showing up well. Hall is a big 210-pound lineman who was added to the list only yesterday. He has had two years' experience in games which brought his ability and strength to the front.

Garmany has been used at center on the reserves and demonstrated that he knows yet how to break up good plays of his opponents. Scott and Coleman are doing good drop-kicking and otherwise showing fair prospects of excelling their last year's work in general. Ferst, of Savannah, and Hutcheson have done good work for the scrubs this week.

Here are the players who will do the most of the work Saturday: McConnell, Thrash, Wingate and Everett, tackles; Garmany, Petrie, Kolton, Riggdon, Beasley and Hall, guards; Pew, center; Carter, Reynolds, Moore, Tate and Ferguson, ends; Donnelly, Reynolds, Hutcheson and Ferst, halves; Dezendorf and Davis, quarters; Neville and Davison, fullbacks. And there will be called several others from the reserves.

Rip Major will be referee and Pitts umpire, with possibly Ross Creekmore field judge.

NO SERIES DETAIL UNTIL NEXT WEEK

Chicago, September 29.—Because of the tightening up of the pennant race in the National league, no official information on the world's series will be given out until next week, it was said at American league headquarters here today. The meeting of the National commission, which was expected to take place the latter part of this week for the purpose of arranging the schedule for the big series, has been postponed until early next week, when the members will assemble in New York to await the outcome.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Red Sox 3, Yanks 0.

Boston, September 29.—Boston's tight defense turned back New York without a score today, while the league leaders hammered out three runs off Shawkey. Ruth, for Boston, held New York to five hits divided between Gedeon and Magee.

New York, as in the other two games of the series, made a rally in the eighth inning, filling the bases with only one out, but a fast double play spoiled their chances for a tally.

In this inning Shawkey waited for a base on balls. Magee promptly sent him around to third base with a double. Bauman, batting for High, hit a hot grounder to Ruth and Shawkey was run down between third base and home, Magee making third on the play and Bauman second base. Ruth then passed Peckinpaugh, filling the bases. Nunamaker, batting for Pipp, smashed a hot liner through the box. Ruth caught it and by a quick throw to Gardner doubled Magee. A great throw by Duffy Lewis choked off one other New York attempt at a score in the fifth inning.

Boston's three runs came on a double, a single, a base on balls, an error, a triple and a sacrifice fly. Scott, whose playing at short has been the sensation of the series, had another good day, together with Gardner, Janvrin, Lewis and Shorten.

WORLD SERIES PRICES DEFENDED BY TENER

New York, September 29.—The management of the Brooklyn team has been unjustly criticised in the matter of seat prices for the world series games, as the prices were fixed by the National Commission, according to a statement made here today by John K. Tener, president of the National league.

"The prices that have been announced in Brooklyn were determined by the National Commission at a meeting held in Cincinnati September 15 to arrange a tentative schedule," Mr. Tener said. "The commission also allowed some latitude to the Brooklyn and Detroit clubs in the matter of $5 seats because of their limited grandstand and box-seat capacity, and because of the added fact that all seats listed at $5 in each park were as choice in location as regular box reservations. This consideration and allowance was also made in other parks of the same character in previous world series games."

GUILTY OF USING BOYS AS PRIZE FIGHTERS

New York, September 29.—The use of young boys as prize fighters resulted in the conviction here today of officials of the Broadway Sporting club of Brooklyn for impairing the morals of minors. The charge was brought by the Brooklyn Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

It was charged that they permitted Irving Wolkow, age 13 years, to fight Isadore Brody, 14 years old, in their club for money. The men found guilty were Dr. Richard J. Kenna, official club physician; Jos McKeon, the matchmaker, and John Haukap, referee. In view of the fact that these were the first convictions of the kind in this court, the court suspended sentence. The State Athletic Committee suspended the club for thirty days.

COTTON CONDITION LOWEST IN YEARS

New York, September 29.—(Special.)—The condition of cotton on an average date of September 22, as compiled from over 2,000 replies of special correspondents of this paper, was 59.6 per cent, as compared with 64.3 per cent a month ago, or a decline of 4.7 points.

This is the lowest percentage in ten years, except 1909, when it was 59.5 on an acreage of 32,292,000, and a yield of 10,004,000 bales. Acreage planted this year was 35,994,000. The decline for the month, 4.7 points, is close to the ten-year average of 5.1 points. The ten-year average condition is 67 per cent. A year ago at this time condition was 63.7 per cent; in 1914 it was 75.5 per cent; in 1913 it was 67.1 per cent; in 1912 it was 70.3 per cent, and in 1911 it was 70.8 per cent.

Watkins Estimate.

New York, September 28.—(Special.)—The Watkins bureau of H. F. Bachman & Co., makes the condition of the cotton crop 57.7 per cent on September 23, compared with 64.7 last month, 62.5 in 1915, 74.0 in 1914, and the ten-year average of 67.2.

The indicated yield per acre is 154.6 pounds, which applied to the acreage planted, less 1 per cent for abandonment, indicates a crop of 11,498,000 bales; approximately 46.2 per cent of the crop has been picked, against 25.2 per cent last year. The crop opened prematurely over practically the entire belt and has been picked, ginned and marketed with the greatest rapidity on record. In our judgment over 40 per cent of the crop has been ginned to September 25. There will be practically no top crop and a late frost would add very little.

Boll weevil is everywhere, except the Carolinas, portions of Georgia, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Arkansas, and has taken everything since the middle of July.

We estimate the consumption of American cotton for the season ending July 31, 1917, at fifteen million bales. This will reduce the supply of unmanufactured cotton to less than two million bales, compared with 4,430,000 July 31, this year, and 7,430,000 in 1915.

The price of cotton is now at a level where wide fluctuations are possible and probable, but the supply of cotton is so far below normal that present prices will probably look cheap before another crop can be produced. H. F. BACHMAN & CO.

W. & L. AND TECH ARE RATED BEST TEAMS IN SOUTH

Lexington, Va., September 29.—(Special.)—On the eve of the opening clash of the 1916 football season with Randolph-Macon college, Coach "Jogger" Elcock, of the Washington and Lee team, in discussing the coming season, said in reference to the game with Georgia Tech in Atlanta on October 28:

"I believe that this game will be a conflict between the two best teams south of the Mason-Dixon line this season. Both teams are known to be strong defensively. Victory for Tech depends upon their being able to get one of their fast backs into a clear field, the same applying to Washington and Lee in case Captain 'Cy' Young, the fast man of the Generals, can make a getaway."

Furthermore, Elcock, since he is now a resident of Atlanta, has been heard to make the statement that he does not want to return to that city unless Georgia Tech is beaten, and that he is still in doubt whether or not he will have to find himself a new home.

The mentor of the Generals also went before the university student body assembled this morning, and delivered the declaration that, although Washington and Lee was facing the hardest schedule that any southern football team had ever attempted, they were about to go through a season of nine games, and all of them victories.

"From tackle to tackle," said Elcock, "I have a line that is second to none in the country today. I have six ends, and plenty of fast and heady back-field men. Above all, I have eleven men who cannot be beaten by any other eleven men that any other college in the United States can put on a football field."

Tomorrow's battle with Randolph-Macon college is expected to be a comparatively easy victory for Washington and Lee. The regular varsity eleven will begin the game, but it is expected that the coaches will inject a goodly number of second-string men into the fray at an early stage. The probable varsity line-up will be as follows: Young and Kehoe, halfbacks; Sorrells, full; Bagley, quarter; Adams and Larkin, ends; Johnson and Ignaco, tackles; Bryan and Bether, guards, and Pierotti, center.

MEAT ANIMALS SHOW BIG ADVANCE IN PRICE

Washington, September 29.—Prices of meat animals—hogs, cattle, sheep and chickens—increased 4.1 per cent from August 15 to September 15, compared with an average increase of 0.9 per cent in the same period the last six years. The department of agriculture announced today that the index figure of prices paid to producers for those meat animals was about 23.7 per cent higher than last year, 10.6 per cent higher than two years ago and 22.5 per cent higher than the average of the last six years on September 15.

The price of hogs on September 15 averaged $9.22 per 100 pounds, an increase of 61 cents from the previous month, $2.23 over a year ago and $1.94 over the average September 15 price of the last six years.

Beef cattle averaged $6.55 per hundred pounds, an increase of 4 cents from the previous month, 49 cents over a year ago and $1.09 over the six-year average.

SOUTHERN RY. MEETING TO BE OPEN TO PUBLIC

Richmond, Va., September 29.—The twenty-third annual meeting of the stockholders of the Southern Railway company will be held in Richmond at the principal office of the company, Times-Dispatch building, on Tuesday, October 10, at 10 a. m.

Following the policy inaugurated by President Fairfax Harrison in 1914, the meeting will be open to the public and the report of the operations of the company for the fiscal year ended June 30 will be put before the meeting for discussion.

All the principal officers of the company will be present in order that questions asked by any stockholders may be answered, and that any information desired concerning the affairs of the company or the territory it serves may be supplied.

A large attendance of individual stockholders is expected.

HE KILLED HIS WIFE AND ALSO HIS STEPSON

Albany, Ala., September 29.—R. W. Minor, a farmer, who late yesterday shot and killed his wife, Terela Minor, and his stepson, Cebron Hardeman, at their home in Limestone county, today told the police his wife was killed accidentally after his stepson had attacked him. His stepson, he said, assaulted him with a knife because he had reproved him.

"When I opened fire," Minor said, "my wife stepped between us and I killed her accidentally. I shot a second time and killed my stepson."

Minor, who sustained several cuts on the body, is in a local hospital. It is believed he will recover.

COTTON WAS QUIET DURING PAST WEEK

New York, September 29.—The cotton market has been comparatively quiet during the greater part of the past week. Bullish private condition figures were followed by quite a sharp advance on Monday, but the market met a good deal of realizing around 16.34 for January and later fluctuations were rather nervous and irregular. Conflicting estimates of the extent of the deterioration in crop prospects for the month probably served to create uncertainty as to the showing of the government crop report expected at the beginning of next week, and this doubtless tended to promote the evening-up of accounts. A somewhat similar influence was attributed to the ruling of southern spot markets, which suggested that buyers were being supplied around the prevailing level of prices, although there was nothing to indicate offerings in excess of demand.

Trade buying and further covering by Liverpool straddle shorts checked declines around 16.08 for January, however, while the absence of southern hedge selling on any important scale also helped to steady the market. Some fresh buying was reported toward the end of the week on cold weather predictions and the appearance of freezing temperatures at a couple of stations in Oklahoma seemed largely responsible for a moderate bulge in prices during today's trading. The prospects for immediate damage from that cause did not appear clearly enough defined to bring in any general demand and local brokers late yesterday were inclined to regard the bulk of the week's business as a reduction of outstanding accounts for over the official crop figures.

Private reports published have ranged from 56.8 to 59.8 per cent as to the condition and compared with figures of the previous month have shown deterioration ranging from 2.9 to 7 points. The average of seven reports indicated a condition of 58.4 per cent and pointed to a falling off of about 5.5 points for the month. Record breaking ginning figures are expected from the census bureau at the opening of Monday morning and opposing market views are between the bullish idea of ultimate results and the prospects for rapidly increasing receipts next month. Reduced crop estimates have caused advances in Egyptian cotton and there has been some buying of American against sales of Egyptian in Liverpool.

DUN'S REVIEW SHOWS LARGER BANK CLEARINGS

New York, September 29.—Dun's Review tomorrow will say:

Restraining influences hamper but do not check progress, current reports adding to the accumulated evidence of prosperity in industry, trade and transportation. Holiday observances have had the usual effect of temporarily limiting business in some branches and labor conditions still restrict manufacturing operations; yet bank clearings at most leading centers, as well as the smaller cities, mount upward steadily and other statistical barometers also make remarkably gratifying exhibits.

The high and rising prices constitute a source of complaint and cause some hesitancy in forward commitments, but the purchasing power is sustained by the full employment of workers at advanced wages and signs of contraction in consumption are the exception. It is noteworthy that demands are broadening in practically every direction, following the partial let-up in mid-summer, and retail distribution, under the stimulus of recent cool weather has developed in a way that foreshadows a record-making movement during the fall and winter.

Weekly bank clearings, $4,879,397,486.

Sugar.

New York, September 29.—The local market for raw sugar was very quiet today, as buyers and sellers were too far apart to do business. There were some moderate offerings of Cubas at the last price of 4⅞, cost and freight, but refiners were not disposed to pay over 4¾. In the absence of business, spot prices remained nominally unchanged at 4⅞ for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 5.89 for centrifugal and 4.99 for molasses.

There was a little better inquiry noted for refined sugar, but demand was principally for immediate shipment. Withdrawals on old contract were good. Prices were unchanged at 6.75 to 7.00 for fine granulated. The market for sugar futures was steadier and prices closed 4 to 7 points above last night's final figures. There was scattered covering by shorts, as renewed buying for outside account and enough support from trade interests to care for what little sugar came out on the advance.

STEEL AGAIN GAINS IN BUSY SESSION

Stock Rises to 120 5-8 on Sales of Approximately 380,000 Shares — 1,750,000 Shares in All Form Stock Activities of Day.

New York, September 29.—Dealings on the stock exchange today rounded out the fourth successive week of five full sessions each and one week-end of two-hour sessions in which transactions reached or exceeded one million shares. This is a record without precedent since the years which marked the many huge industrial combinations and mergers, including that of the United States Steel corporation.

Today's turnover of 1,750,000 shares was not only the largest with one exception for the current movement, but was even more noteworthy for the enormous proportion of industrials dealt in, this group completely eclipsing the rails, coppers and other issues in which speculation recently was most active.

United States Steel led throughout, rising to 120⅝, a new record, on sales of about 380,000 shares.

Other iron and steel shares were conspicuous for their strength and activity and included Republic Iron and Steel at the new record of 83¾.

Gains of 1 to nearly 5 points were scored by Colorado Fuel, American Car, Crucible, Lackawanna and Sloss-Sheffield steel, Cast Iron Pipe, Railway Steel springs, Pressed Steel Car, New York Airbrake and American and Baldwin Locomotives. Even the most obscure issues of this group awakened from their long lethargy, sharing more moderately in the upward movement. Profit-taking reduced some extreme gains by 1 to 2 points at the close.

Rails were backward, but displayed a strong undertone, particularly Union Pacific and the coalers, Lehigh Valley, for example, recovering its quarterly dividend twice over at an advance of 2¾ points.

Many war and semi-war issues benefited by the rise in industrials, together with Petroleum and Sugars.

Bonds were active and strong, with an increased demand for the international war issues, which changed hands at the best quotations for some weeks. Total sales of bonds, par value, $5,460,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, September 29.—Cotton seed oil was quiet and somewhat erratic. An opening advance was followed by a moderate downturn under selling by local longs and refiners, but the close was higher on the late steadiness in lard and cotton. Final prices were two points lower to two net higher. Sales, 14,000 barels.

New York, September 29.—Reports of frost in the southwest caused a rally in the cotton market today, with January contracts selling up from 16.13 to 16.23. Demand did not become active, however, and prices later eased off, with January closing at 16.15. The general list closed steady, net unchanged to 5 points higher.

The market opened steady at an advance of 7 points on bullish private condition figures and frost predictions. There seemed to be quite a good deal of cotton for sale around the initial level, largely for Liverpool and New Orleans account. There was also local realizing and prices sagged off shortly after the call, with December selling down to 16.05 and March to 16.30, or about even with last night's closing figures. The eastern belt forecast for frost in northern sections tonight then checked offerings and the market later improved on the detailed weather reports showing temperatures below freezing at a couple of points in Oklahoma. This rally carried December up to 16.17 and March to 16.40, or some 8 to 12 points above last night's finals, but the buying was not aggressive and general business remained very quiet. Moreover, the advance seemed to meet renewed realizing for over-the-government reports expected on Monday, and last prices showed reactions of 6 to 7 points from the best.

Three private crop reports were issued. One of them made the condition 58.2 against 64.7 last month; another was 58.3 against 63.2, and the third was 57.7 against 64.7 last year. According to this latter report 46.2 per cent of the crop has been picked against 25 per cent last year, and the condition points to a yield of about 11,498,000 bales. One of the other reports estimated the amount picked at 48 per cent against 35 last year and a ten-year average of 31 per cent.

There may have been some scattered selling late in the afternoon on the bearish view of the weekly figures which showed a big gain in interior stocks and an increase of 301,176 bales in the world's visible supply of American, compared with 235,351 last year.

New Orleans Gains 1-3 Points.

New Orleans, September 29.—Cotton held quiet but steady on this market today, with a slight upward tendency, partly owing to the cold weather in the belt and predictions of frost tonight over a large area of cotton country. Other influences were several bullish private conditions reports, better cables than due and on unexpected advance of an eighth of a cent a pound in local spot prices. Liquidation of long cotton and hedging operations furnished offerings which came close to filling the demand and the highest levels of the session showed a gain of but 8 to 10 points. At one time the market stood within about a point of yesterday's close. Last prices were at a net gain of 1 to 3 points.

Fresh business was restricted by the nearness of the government report. The cold weather caused much bullish comment, but resulted in little buying. Traders with bullish inclinations appeared somewhat less confident than they have been as to how the expected large ginning returns will be received.

Taken all around, the market was a small affair, with the developments of the day falling flat.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, September 29.—(Special.)—The cotton market today was uninteresting. The eyes of the trade are turned upon the bureau report of Monday. The figures of The Journal of Commerce are expected tomorrow and will probably show about five points decline for the month. The government figures are expected somewhere between 55 and 57.

The bulls expect these figures to add vitality enough to the market to permit them to liquidate some of their profits. The bears are expecting the bulls to try to force higher levels and are determined to put out short lines should they do so. The farmer is taking advantage of the high prices and is selling so much cotton that not only the compresses but also the railroads seem about to overflow. The bulls claim the movement is largely old cotton attracted by the high price, but the ginning records show record-breaking quantities of new cotton as well.

The bulls claim that picking is nearing completion in some sections in which assertion they should be largely correct, as both the weather and the price have been satisfactory. Tomorrow is a half-holiday, and except for evening up no new business need be looked for.

Monday's ginning report will come first and the bureau report will not be published until 11 a. m. Into sight for the week shows 523,000 vs. 495,000 last year, the season's total 2,005,000 vs. 1,652,000. These figures are not significant, however, for they were exceeded to to this date in 1909, when only had crop of 10¼ million bales.

RENSKORF, LYON & CO.

New York, September 29.—(Special.)—Liverpool recovered its decline of yesterday. The American markets opened at a corresponding advance. There was fair selling of contracts which were absorbed by spinners and speculators who have been waiting for lower prices, but who decided to take the market as they found it.

The government reported frost and freezing temperatures in some of the large producing counties of Oklahoma and predicted frost for parts of the Carolinas and Georgia, which caused a firm and higher price.

J. W. JAY & CO.

New York, September 29.—(Special.)—Bullish private condition reports and the probability of frost over the eastern part of the cotton belt tonight, induced buying here today and prices advanced about ten points. The market acts sound at the present level of prices and although the weight of actual cotton may prevent an advance for a while yet, conditions point to higher prices later on.

The demand for cotton is continuous and after the first rush of the new receipts has been absorbed belated buyers will feel keenly the shortness of this season's crop.

BOND, M'ENANY & CO.

New York, September 29.—(Special.)—A ten to twelve points advance seemed to be the capacity of the cotton market today, with closing prices seven to eight points below the day's high figures. Some buying occurred on reports of killing frost at two Oklahoma points. Killing general frosts would be unusual this early, but this season it would be well to remember that it would have very little permanent stimulating effect upon prices, because of the fact that most cotton is now open and little top crop is reported anywhere, we believe that the ginning figures to be published at 10 a. m. Monday will be very heavy; if so, they may inspire considerable long liquidation, but trade and mill interests may step into the breech and support the market.

If the condition figures to be published Monday at 11 a. m. are bullish, the market will doubtless advance sharply, as big ginning figures will be recognized as forecasting early exhaustion, while small condition figures will confirm the general idea of a very short crop.

Therefore on any break after the opening Monday we favor purchases of March and May. So yesterday bean, olive, vegetable, animal and fish oils are firm, with an advancing tendency. Cotton seed oil alone is likely to have a sensational advance when least expected. We believe refiners will soon take to the bull side. The situation is too bullish to much longer combat, in our opinion. We favor purchases December.

CHARLES FAIRCHILD & CO.

New York, September 29.—(Special.)—The market today was quiet on a somewhat higher level than yesterday, with a general inclination to wait the bureau report on Monday. There will be a ginners' report published by the census bureau of the amount of cotton ginned to September 24, which will be published at 10 o'clock, and the usual monthly bureau report on the condition of the crop as of September 25, which will be published at 11 o'clock.

It is expected the ginners' report will be very heavy, the local view is that the condition report will be low enough to be bullish. Frost was reported in Oklahoma, and at one or two places temperatures were low enough to attract general attention. As this is early for any serious frost to occur, some local buying was attracted.

We see no change in the general situation, as American mills continue to report business passing on a profitable basis, even at these prices, and they are still buyers on each decline. Except for this, however, the market displays little enthusiasm and had not recently responded to bullish news.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New Orleans, La., September 29.—(Special.)—This morning the government weather map showed a temperature of 40 all over Oklahoma, and some heavy frosts were reported. Private advices from some points stated that the temperature had even fallen as low as 38 and 36. A little later, the government forecasted frost for the northern half of Alabama, Georgia and the Carolinas.

Much to the surprise of everybody, the market did not respond to this very bullish news. Although there was considerable speculative buying, these purchases were met by heavy hedge selling and there was large trading with no material change in prices.

BIG MEETING HELD BY ROME CHAMBER

40,000 People Expected to Attend the Animal Industry Convention in June. Clarke's Address Praised.

Rome, Ga., September 29.—(Special.) At a general mass meeting of the members of the Rome Chamber of Commerce and citizens of the city, held here tonight, preliminary plans were made for the starting of immediate work on the local end of the great animal industry convention to be held here next June under the auspices of the state chamber of commerce. Enthusiasm prevailed throughout the entire meeting, and the speeches made were characteristic of the Greater Rome spirit, and give promise of wonderful achievements for Rome and north Georgia in the next year.

Hon. Wright Willingham, president of the Rome Chamber of Commerce, spoke eloquently of the future of Rome, and was given such an ovation as evidenced the fact that he has the entire community behind him in his work.

The closing speech of the evening was made by Edward Young Clarke, secretary-manager of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, who had been specially invited to be on hand and confer with the citizens of Rome in regard to the convention to be held in Rome next June.

"This gathering," said Mr. Clarke, "held eight months in advance of the convention, for the purpose of starting work immediately on the local end of the situation, gives just reason to expect that the third animal industry convention, which is to be held in Rome, will be the most notable event ever staged in the state.

"Rome has a way of gripping situations and doing big things, and I frankly say that I feel that the live stock industry in north Georgia will get such an impetus as a result of this convention as it has never before received."

Clarke's Speech Praised.

Intense enthusiasm was manifested at the close of the address of Mr. Clarke. Junius Hillyer, one of the oldest citizens of Rome, electrified the audience with a declaration that he believed the meeting meant the beginning of a new era in Rome. Wright Willingham, president of the Rome chamber, in a brilliant speech, declared that Mr. Clarke's address had aroused more enthusiasm than any he had heard delivered at a Rome chamber meeting.

Fred Houser, secretary of the Atlanta Convention bureau, spoke on "How Rome Can Secure Conventions," his address being well reecived and roundly applauded.

Plans were begun to have from thirty to forty thousand people attend the Animal Industry convention in Rome next June, which is to be held under the auspices of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce.

Expect to Eclipse Quitman Events.

It is planned to eclipse the two animal industry conventions held in Quitman, under the auspices of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, and to accomplish this the citizens of Rome will not only draw on the citizenship of Floyd county, but also have been assured of the assistance of leading cities of north Georgia, including Dalton, Cartersville, Athens and some dozen other cities and counties of the northern section of the state.

The two conventions of the Georgia chamber held at Quitman set a record in the south for achievements on this line. The first was held in the early spring of 1915, and made a remarkable impression on the section and gave the animal industry a splendid leap forward. When the time came for the setting of the second convention for the stimulation of the animal industry in the state, Quitman and Brooks county put in such strong claim for it that the second convention was also given to Quitman with five other south Georgia cities competing hotly for the honor.

The second convention broke all records in the south, and was commented on in the public press from Maine to California. Twelve thousand people were fed at a public dinner, eleven hundred automobiles out of the county, were on hand, thirty special trains went into the city, and the parade which passed the reviewing stand took several hours to pass. The event was so amazing in many ways that the government sent special representatives to investigate the opportunities in the section for stock raising, and the industry has boomed ever since as a direct result of the convention.

Rome Elated Over Prospect.

The committee from Rome which won the convention from the delegates attending the annual meeting of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce are elated over the outlook of the convention for Rome. They believe that it means the dawn of a new day for north Georgia from the standpoint of live stock, which is generally recognized as the coming industry of the state. It is planned to have more prominent people in Rome on the date of this convention than have ever attended any one event in the state.

Features never before attempted along this line will be introduced as part of the convention, and the celebrations in connection with the convention. The farmers will take part in the event and in the preliminary planning for the event as they have never participated in anything of this kind ever before held in the state.

WIFE'S BODY CHARRED; HUSBAND IS ARRESTED

Mrs. Small Beaten and Strangled Before Being Burned. Fire to Cover Crime.

Mountain View, N. H., September 29. Mrs. Frederick L. Small, wife of a Boston real estate broker, who was burned in a fire which destroyed the Small summer home at Lake Ossipee last night, was murdered, it was discovered today when her body was taken from the ruins. She had been beaten over the head and strangled by a rope tied around her neck. Her husband was arrested by Sheriff Chandler and held at a local hotel pending instructions from the county solicitor.

The police believe the fire was set to cover the crime. By a mere chance, however, this failed. The body dropped into the basement and the head and neck lodged in a pool of water. The rope which had been drawn twice around the neck was preserved.

Small, who had left his cottage on a business trip to Boston six hours before the fire was discovered, hurried back today and was arrested soon afterwards. He said his wife was alone when he departed.

Small retired from active business about three years ago, and purchased the cottage at Lake Ossipee. The fire had gained strong headway before anyone was attracted to it.

The agent of a life insurance company today made known that in January last he had written a joint policy on the lives of Small and his wife, Mrs. Arlene Small, for $20,000. He solicited the business, he said, and both the husband and wife participated in the negotiations that led to the issuance of the policy.

Before his arrest Small had announced that he would give $1,000 for the discovery of the person who killed his wife, adding that he knew of no one who might have had any reason to harm her. After his arrest he refused to make any statement.

In 1909 Small sued A. H. Soden, widely-known as one of the three owners of the Boston Nationals, for $500,000 for alienation of Mrs. Small's affections. He was awarded $10,000.

High Sheriff Arthur Chandler announced late tonight that he would prefer a charge of first degree murder tomorrow against Frederick L. Small.

Small was held under guard in a local hotel tonight. He engaged counsel during the evening.

Mrs. Small's maiden name was Florence Curry and she was his third wife. They were married in December, 1911.

The couple lived in Southboro, Mass., until July, 1914, when they moved to the cottage on Lake Ossipe, which they had since occupied. Fire of undetermined origin destroyed their Southboro home the day after they left for New Hampshire.

Mr. Small's second wife was Laura Patterson, of Salem, Mass., whom he married in 1899. They lived for a while on a farm until they were driven out by fire. Later they lived in Boston.

In 1909 Small brought suit for alienation of his wife's affections against A. H. Soden, former part owner of the Boston National league club, and while the case was pending he obtained a divorce from his wife in Boston. The divorce was uncontested. Small was awarded $10,000 in suit against Soden.

G. O. P. IS DEFEATED, DECLARES MARSHALL

Chicago, September 29.—Vice President Thomas R. Marshall visited western democratic national headquarters today and conferred with Senator Walsh in regard to the progress of the campaign. Mr. Marshall will speak at Elkhart, Ind., tonight.

"The republican party is defeated unless within the next four weeks it can tell the people of this country where democratic legislation has been wrong," said the vice president. "The republican party has yet to suggest any changes or to announce anything it will do. The people of this country are prosperous and happy. You see no street corner meetings of people talking politics. They are too busy with their work."

St. Louis is to have a national flower show next March.

NEW YORK FERRY BOATS TIED UP BY A STRIKE

New York, September 29.—Ferry boats of the New York Central Railroad company, plying between Manhattan and New Jersey, were tied up during the rush hours late today by a strike of 150 employees on the boats. The latest labor difficulty in this city resulted from the men's demand for shorter hours and higher pay. The strike has no connection, it was said, with the traction situation.

Thousands of commuters gathered at the two Manhattan ferry stations of the company, the crowds overflowing the ferry houses into the streets where a heavy rain was falling. Not until police reserves were called out did the commuters abandon their demand for boats. They left the city for their homes in New Jersey over roundabout routes.

Probability of a general sympathetic strike in aid of the tranction employees who quit their places September 6 lessened tonight with the announcement that a local brewery workers' union, whose 900 members struck in response to the call of the conference of labor leaders, had voted to return to work. Officials of the union issued a statement in which it was said developments proved that organized labor "will not act in concert in behalf of the car men."

Organization of subway and elevated road motormen will continue, according to a statement made today by L. G. Griffing, third assistant grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, in charge of the work in this city. Mr. Griffing said he was awaiting the outcome of negotiations with Oscar S. Straus, chairman of the public service commission, before continuing efforts to adjust differences with the companies.

The Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees today took steps to distribute strike benefits among the striking carmen, it was announced by James H. Fahey, general counsel of the association.

Sixteen persons were injured, one seriously, in a rear-end collision between two surface cars in the Bronx this afternoon. One car was standing still when the other, said to have been operated by strike-breakers, crashed into it. The motorman of the rear car jumped from his post, it is said, and disappeared.

Marked improvement in surface car traffic was reported today with subway and elevated lines operating on normal schedules.

In a statement issued tonight, William B. Fitzgerald, general organizer of the amalgamated association, who is in charge of the traction strike, said there now are 11,000 car men on strike in this city. He declared the ranks of the strikers were being increased daily and said the men were going to carry the fight until it was won.

"The traction companies are going to be made to realize," he said, "that American citizens in the first city of the United States are not going to surrender rights which it has taken a half century in the labor movement to secure."

Dalton, Ga., September 29.—(Special.) Congressman Gordon Lee, of the seventh congressional district, was formally nominated here today in the district convention at the courthouse. The convention was called to order by Paul B. Trammell. Mr. Trammell was elected chairman and T. S. McCamy secretary.

After the vote a committee waited on the congressman and announced to him his nomination. When Lee appeared in the convention hall he was given a great ovation, the demonstration lasting several minutes. In his speech of acceptance he devoted much time to praise of the Wilson administration, and at the mention of the name of the president another outburst of applause broke forth in the hall. A committee on resolutions read an indorsement of President Wilson.

The following men were elected to serve on the district executive committee:

OVERCOATS PROVED MAN'S BEST FRIEND

after sundown looked with envy at some few who had opportunity to go home and secure that great, big, comfortable overcoat, which, during the hot months, has been carefully placed in the closet.

It Felt Like 30 Degrees.

The weather man could not be seen last night to tell just what point the thermometer reached in its downward flight, but the estimate of the reporter who, unfortunately, did not have the comfort of an overcoat, is that the mercury registered a bare 30. This, of course, is unofficial and a mere estimate, but—

Anyhow, it appears that all the moths who for months have had comfortable homes are to be dispossessed of their habitat, and the cedar chest in the closet under the stairs is to yield forth the much coveted garments.

It is a pretty safe bet that overcoats will take up much space in the shop windows today, and that the sales will be substantial.

Von Herrmann's Statement.

Weather Forecaster von Herrmann declared Friday afternoon that in his opinion the temperature early this morning would be between 40 and 42 degrees.

"But about midday I look for the temperature to rise to about 75 degrees. Today the lowest recorded here was 59 degrees early in the morning. The mercury rose to 60 degrees at midday. I look for the cool wave to last for two or three days. It will then warm up again and the temperature will go up to about where it was during last week.

"The cool wave, and please make that cool wave, and not a cold wave, is general over the eastern half of the United States. Cool waves are never local in their nature. This one has come in from the west.

"I don't look for the lowest temperature for today to be below 40 degrees. There may be a touch of frost in some places in the state. But there will not be much. There has been no frost reported from the state as yet. It is rather early in the year for frost in Georgia.

"The earliest day on which frost has been recorded here was on September 27 some years ago. Last year the first frost came in October, about the 10th.

"November 1 is the average date for the first frost to appear in this section. So if there is a light frost tonight it will be rather early for this section of the country."

The local forecast, good until 7 p. m. Saturday, states that the weather will be generally fair with cooler temperatures and probably frost.

ITCHING BURNING SCALP TROUBLE

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"I was a great sufferer of scalp trouble which afterward formed almost a crust, and I could hardly comb my hair because of such itching, burning, and soreness. I began to scratch which would irritate, my scalp becoming sore, and my hair falling out. I was restless for hours at night before I could sleep, and my hair became thin, dry, and lifeless.

"The trouble lasted nearly a month. I accidentally came across Cuticura, and tried a free sample. Two large-sized boxes of Cuticura Ointment with the Cuticura Soap healed me entirely of scalp trouble in about six weeks." (Signed) Mrs. W. A. Adams, 1711 Cedar St., Richwood, Va., Jan. 25, 1916.

Useless to You

But valuable to someone else. This means those odd pieces of furniture, carpets, rugs, musical instruments or other articles that you have lying around or stored away.

The "Someone else" are the people who are reading the for sale miscellaneous columns of The Atlanta Constitution. Every day they read this column looking for, perhaps, the very thing you cannot use.

Offer them for sale; you will find a ready buyer and be agreeably surprised to find how quickly they can be turned into cash.

MORE BREAD ALLOWED TO PEOPLE OF GERMANY

Berlin, September 29.—(Via Sayville.) The larger harvest of this year has enabled the authorities not only to maintain the increased bread rations for persons who have had manual labor to perform, granted several months ago, and to provide an additional fifty grammes of flour per day for young people between 12 and 17 years of age, as recently announced, says an Overseas News agency statement, but has made it possible to insure the increased rations being maintained during the entire year to come.

The price of rye flour has been reduced one mark per 100 kilograms, the announcement adds, and it is expected that grits, oats and other cereal products for soup making will be produced on a larger scale within a short time, constituting a considerable improvement in the provisioning situation. Important increases in the fodder crops are pointed to, it being noted that the yields of oats and barley are far superior to those of last year.
